women writers sought to fashion their own celebrity images through various kinds of public performance and how the media appropriated these writers for particular cultural discourses She also reassesses the relationship between celebrity culture and literary culture demonstrating how the commercial success of these writers caused literary elites to denigrate their writing as middlebrow despite the fact that their work often challenged middle class ideals of marriage home and family and complicated class categories and lines of social discrimination The first comparative study of North American and British literary celebrity Women Celebrity and Literary Culture between the Wars offers a nuanced appreciation of the middlebrow in relation to modernism and popular culture
