In Case of Emergency argues that emergency media are profoundly cultural artifacts that shape the very definition of emergency as an opposite of normal The normalizing ideologies produced and reinforced by emergency media result in unequal access to emergency services and discriminatory assumptions about who or what is a threat and who deserves care and protection Thus a primary function of emergency media is to produce feelings of safety in some while designating others as targets of surveillance and control

Artificial intelligence AI has the potential to radically transform our society It may lead to a massive increase in the capabilities of humankind and allow us to address some of our most intractable challenges It may also entail profound disruption to structures and processes that have sustained our society over centuries These developments present a unique challenge to the socio economic constitutional arrangements which govern our world at national regional and international level The deployment of increasingly powerful AI systems able to function with increasing degree of autonomy has led to concerns over loss of human control of important societal processes over the disruption of existing economic social and legal relationships and over the empowerment of some societal actors at the expense of others together with the entrenchment of situations of domination or discrimination It has also made increasingly clear how tremendous the potential benefits that these technologies may bring are to those who successfully develop and deploy them There is therefore great pressure on governments international institutions public authorities civil society organisations industry bodies and individual firms to introduce or adapt mechanisms and structures that will avoid the potentially negative outcomes of AI and achieve the positive ones These mechanisms and structures which have been given the umbrella term AI governance cover a wide range of approaches from individual firms introducing ethical principles which they volunteer to abide by to the European Union legislating an AI Act which will prohibit certain types of AI applications and impose binding obligations on AI developers and deployers The fast pace of innovation in the development of AI technologies is mirrored by the fast pace of development of the emerging field of AI governance where traditional legislation by public bodies is complemented with more innovative approaches such as hybrid and adaptive governance ethical alignment governance by design and the creation of regulatory sandboxes The chapter AI and Sensitive Personal Data Under the Law Enforcement Directive Between Operational Efficiency and Legal Necessity is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via link springer.com
