

The cover features a collage of scientific and biological images. At the top center is a green, textured, circular object with a small hole. To the left is a close-up of a sheep's head. Below the sheep are two black cylindrical objects, possibly lenses or filters, with numbers like '100' and '40' visible. At the bottom are several petri dishes; one contains a white strip with an orange label that says 'NOVA'. Current Research in Pulsed Laser Deposition Liviu Duta, Andrei C. Popescu, 2021-08-30 Despite its limitation in terms of surface covered area the PLD technique still gathers interest among researchers by offering endless possibilities for tuning thin film composition and enhancing their properties of interest due to i the easiness of a stoichiometric transfer even for very complex target materials ii high adherence of the deposited structures to the substrate iii controlled degree of phase crystallinity and thickness of deposited coatings iv versatility of the experimental set up which allows for simultaneous ablation of multiple targets resulting in combinatorial maps or consecutive ablation of multiple targets producing multi layered structures and v adjustment of the number of laser pulses resulting in either a spread of nanoparticles islands of materials or a complete covering of a surface Moreover a variation of PLD known as Matrix Assisted Pulsed Laser Evaporation allows for deposition of organic materials ranging from polymers to proteins and even living cells otherwise difficult to transfer unaltered in the form of thin films by other techniques Furthermore the use of laser light as transfer agent ensures purity of films and pulse to pulse deposition allows for an unprecedented control of film thickness at the nm level This Special Issue is a collection of state of the art research papers and reviews in which the topics of interest are devoted to thin film synthesis by PLD and MAPLE for numerous research and industry field applications such as bio active coatings for medical implants and hard protective coatings for cutting and drilling tools withstanding high friction and elevated temperatures sensors solar cells lithography magnetic devices energy storage and conversion devices controlled drug delivery and in situ microstructuring for boosting of surface properties Medical and Health Care Books and Serials in Print , 1997 Current Catalog National Library of Medicine (U.S.), First multi year cumulation covers six years 1965 70

Index Medicus , 2004 Vols for 1963 include as pt 2 of the Jan issue Medical subject headings Dietary Phosphorus Jaime Uribarri, Mona Calvo, 2017-09-27 Phosphorus is an essential nutrient that occurs in almost all foods and is important for many normal physiological functions In a typical Western diet it is not harmful but does adversely affect tissues in the body when consumed in excess or deficiency This book provides a comprehensive review of various aspects of phosphorus in relation to human nutritional needs Sections cover phosphorus nutrition and dietary issues health risks associated with excess phosphorus intake that exceeds requirements phosphorus intake in populations at risk regulatory challenges and policy approaches and environmental impacts of phosphates in the modern food supply This book challenges the long held ideas that high dietary phosphorus intake beyond nutritional requirements is safe and the natural supply of phosphorus critical to agricultural and human food production is endless Controversy surrounds the claim that largely unrestricted use of phosphorus in all aspects of food production from farm to fork increases dietary phosphorus intake and irretrievable environmental loss both of which harm human and environmental health The book editors have joined together experts in basic medical environmental nutritional and food science to explore the validity of these claims of harm from high intakes and the unchecked use of phosphorus in the global food supply Despite the essential need for adequate phosphorus over all stages of plant animal and human life the growing evidence points to a worldwide increase in dietary phosphorus intake far beyond nutrient requirements significant association with chronic disease risk even when renal function is not compromised and the increase in environmental loss with crop run off animal husbandry and unretrieved phosphorus from human waste This current evidence alludes to a depleted unsustainable natural supply of phosphorus hazardous environmental pollution of lakes and waterways and significant increases in the risk of kidney skeletal and other serious illnesses in humans in the future if action is not taken now
