Portraits of Academic Life in Higher Education

, 2024-12-16 The academic experiences and emotions shared in these chapters can be described as thoughtful courageous insightful and worrisome Collectively authors draw a troubled higher education landscape that has evolved over the years from to put it mildly a more pleasant working environment in more generous times to a less pleasant working environment in today's more restrictive, more competitive and more financially difficult times. However, on a positive note, contributing authors share their understanding of the core purpose of the higher education institution and its mission as purveyors of that purpose through adherence to the university's stated triad of goals: teaching, research, and service.

On Course James M. Lang, 2010-05-10 On Course is full of experience-tested, research-based advice for graduate students and new teaching faculty. It provides a range of innovative and traditional strategies that work well without requiring extensive preparation or long grading sessions when trying to meet one's own demanding research and service requirements.

The Academic Job Search Handbook Julia Miller Vick, Jennifer S. Furlong, 2013-06-12 For more than 15 years, The Academic Job Search Handbook has assisted job seekers in all academic disciplines in their search for faculty positions. The guide includes information on aspects of the search that are common to all levels, with invaluable tips for those seeking their first or second faculty position. This new edition provides updated advice and addresses hot topics in the competitive job market of today, including the challenges faced by dual career couples, job search issues for pregnant candidates, and advice on how to deal with gaps in a CV. The chapter on alternatives to academic jobs has been expanded, and sample resumes from individuals seeking nonfaculty positions are included. The book begins with an overview of the hiring process and a timetable for applying for academic positions. It then gives detailed information on application materials, interviewing, negotiating job offers, and starting the new job. Guidance throughout is aimed at all candidates, with frequent reference to the specifics of job searches in scientific and technical fields as well as those in the humanities and social sciences. Advice on seeking postdoctoral opportunities is also included. Perhaps the most significant contribution is the inclusion of sample vitas. The Academic Job Search Handbook describes the organization and content of the vita and includes samples from a variety of fields. In addition to CVs and research statements, new in this edition are a sample interview itinerary, a teaching portfolio, and a sample offer letter. The job search correspondence section has also been updated, and there is current information on Internet search methods and useful websites.

Running Behavioral Studies With Human Participants Frank E. Ritter, 2013 A practical, concrete road map to running research studies with human subjects. Covering both conceptual and practical issues critical to implementing a study with human participants, this book is organized to follow the standard process in experiment-based research, covering such issues as potential ethical problems, risks to validity, experimental setup, running a study, and concluding a study. The detailed guidance on each step of a study is ideal for anyone who has had little or no previous practical training in research methodology. The book's examples and sample forms are drawn from areas such as cognitive psychology, human factors, human-computer interaction, and human-robotic interaction.

Key Features A coherent view of how to implement the experimental process, including detailed discussions of the setup and running of behavioral studies, gives you a practical guide for implementing your own experiments. Concrete examples speak to the diverse needs of the HCI, human factors, cognitive science, and related communities. Practical coverage of risks and problems that can be anticipated and avoided helps you recognize the ethical challenges you might encounter during the course of designing running or concluding a study Three running example scenarios drawn from industrial and academic settings help you understand the major themes of each chapter Example forms provide you with models you can use as you create your own experimental documents such as IRB applications experimental scripts consent forms and room layouts to meet your particular research needs Practical advice and examples of challenges associated with experimental setup and execution such as how to set up experimental rooms manage late or missing participants and devise an effective experimental script humanize key points in a memorable way helping you recall the major points of the book Built in learning aids include further readings an appendix on running studies online questions at the end of each chapter and publication paths and types that encourage you to take ownership of the research process and engage in research in a directed and methodical way Book jacket
