Critical Thinking Assessment

Why is the Critical Thinking Assessment important?

A major paradigm shift has occurred in education over the past decade from an instruction-based approach to outcomes-based learning. Educators are increasingly aware of the value of teaching students how to analyze, reason, evaluate, and develop a creative and critical perspective on the information from which they are exposed. Educators are now viewing students as active learners, rather than passive recipients of information. Through the educational experience, students may acquire the critical thinking skills and habits for life-long learning.

The Critical Thinking Assessment complies with accreditation committee guidelines for documentation of outcome criteria upon entry and exit from the program. This assessment instrument offers faculty the opportunity to identify students' level of critical thinking and facilitate higher-order thinking skills. Instructional materials are provided to faculty to help teach students how to apply critical thinking in their own learning environment. Students also receive material to enhance their abilities to take in information at a higher-level. Our educational consultants offer critical thinking seminars customized to the individual institution's needs. At ATI, we believe students must develop the skills necessary to think critically, exercise good judgment, and focus on adopting a commitment to lifelong learning. We strive provide the tools you need to make it easier for your students to learn.
