The New Advisor Guidebook Pat Folsom, Franklin Yoder, Jennifer E. Joslin, 2015-09-21 This is an exciting time to be an academic advisor a time in which global recognition of the importance of advising is growing research affirms the critical role advising plays in student success and institutions of higher education increasingly view advising as integral to their missions and essential for improving the quality of students educational experiences It is essential that advisors provide knowledgeable realistic counsel to the students in their charge The New Advisor Guidebook helps advisors meet this challenge The first and final chapters of the book identify the knowledge and skills advisors must master These chapters present frameworks for setting and benchmarking self development goals and for creating self development plans Each of the chapters in between focuses on foundational content the basic terms concepts information and skills advisors must learn in their first year and upon which they will build over the lengths of their careers These chapters include strategies questions guidelines examples and case studies that give advisors the tools to apply this content in their work with students from demonstrations of how student development theories might play out in advising sessions to questions advisors can ask to become aware of their biases and avoid making assumptions about students to a checklist for improving listening interviewing and referral skills The book covers various ways in which advising is delivered one to one in groups and online The New Advisor Guidebook serves as an introduction to what advisors must know to do their jobs effectively It pairs with Academic Advising Approaches Strategies That Teach Students to Make the Most of College also from NACADA which presents the delivery strategies successful advisors can use to help students make the most of their college experience

College Belonging Lisa M. Nunn, 2021-02-12 College Belonging reveals how colleges and universities efforts to foster a sense of belonging in their students are misguided Colleges bombard new students with the message to get out there and find your place by joining student organizations sports teams clubs and the like Nunn shows that this reflects a flawed understanding of what belonging is and how it works Drawing on the sociological theories of Emile Durkheim College Belonging shows that belonging is something that members of a community offer to each other It is something that must be given like a gift Individuals cannot simply walk up to a group or community and demand belonging That s not how it works The group must extend a sense of belonging to each and every member It happens by making a person feel welcome to feel that their presence matters to the group that they would be missed if they were gone This critical insight helps us understand why colleges push for students simply to get out there does not always work The Library Student Advisory Board Amy L. Deuink, Marianne Seiler, 2009-03-23 This is a practical guide written by two professionals with real world experience establishing a library student advisory board Penn State University s Schuylkill campus library has such a board operating beautifully Different from traditional student advisory boards the club at Penn State Schuylkill resembles a public library s friends group The activities of the club benefit not only the library and campus but the club members themselves Just how much time effort and know how is required to form a library student advisory board Here is the answer Useful advice is offered on how to get a club started how to recruit new members and keep them active the duties of the club advisor basic do s and don ts of fundraising and how to build a successful relationship between the club the library director and the library staff Becoming Great Universities Richard J. Light, Allison Jegla, 2024-08-06 Becoming Great Universities arose from co author Richard J Light s visits over the past twenty years to more than 250 campuses and his conversations with presidents administrators faculty and students Light and co author Allison Jegla have distilled the topics arising from these conversations into the ten chapters that frame their book with emphasis on the prospect of promoting a culture of continuous innovation for creating value for students This book is precisely about the university s teaching and student development mission not research The overwhelming evidence in the higher education literature asserts that it is on the teaching and education side that our colleges and universities are most challenged and therefore that is where the greatest improvements can and must be made Light and Jegla s message to higher education leaders is that improving performance depends to a great extent on their purposeful development of the institution s culture as a community and on leveraging this culture through the encouragement of constructive working relationships across all sectors of campus including administration staff faculty and students Their chapters cover the following topics how to help students from under resourced backgrounds how to encourage students to invest their time and talents beneficially how to attract students from non traditional backgrounds to campus how to improve learning outcomes through innovative teaching how to assess learning how to productively elicit student opinions ideas and advice how to facilitate constructive interaction among students from differing backgrounds how to build opportunities for lifelong learning and how to inspire students to think globally Throughout their book Light and Jegla emphasize practical lessons for promoting measures of innovation on each front With a broad spectrum of institutions in mind the authors present dozens of no cost or low cost actionable initiatives that faculty university leaders and even students can implement always in the spirit of working toward their campus's sustained improvement over time Advising Student Governments Tricia Nolfi Torok,1999 College Access and Opportunity Guide 2011 , The Handbook of Career Advising Kenneth F.
