Aldo Van Eyck Robert McCarter, 2015-01-01 Robert McCarter provides a comprehensive study of Aldo van Eyck's 50 year career guiding readers through the architect's buildings and unrealised projects with a focus on the interior spatial experience as well as the design and construction processes. He investigates how van Eyck's writings and lectures convey the importance of architecture in the everyday lives of people around the world and throughout history and by presenting the architect's design work together with the principles on which it was founded illuminates van Eyck's ethical interpretation of architecture's place in the world.

Times of Creative Destruction Alexander Tzonis, Liane Lefaivre, 2016-12-08 Times of Creative Destruction is about the years that followed the end of WWII, one of the most seminal and dramatic epochs in human history during which extraordinary star buildings were born, cities exploded and an unprecedented world of a Third Ecology emerged. Never before was there such a flurry of daring mega constructions such as daring spatial acrobatics, star buildings by star architects, attained by star developers, mega constructions, technological feats and flourishing spatial acrobatics. But for all its exhilarating creativity this was also an era of unanticipated intractable irreversible destruction, reducing the uniqueness and diversity of cultural, social and ecological peaks and valleys of our world to a desert flatland, environmental inequality and unhappiness. This book critically discusses and reevaluates these contradictory events, bringing together and commenting on a selection of shorter key texts by Tzonis and Lefaivre, the product of a rare research and writing partnership. The texts published between the early 1960s and the present are significant as documents that inform about the period. They are also important and timely because of their critical and influential role in the debates of this era, both creative and destructive.
