Abbott,2017-04-10 Alexander was suddenly called upon to succeed his father on the Macedonian throne in the most unexpected manner and in the midst of scenes of the greatest excitement and agitation The circumstances were these Philip is reconciled to Olympias and Alexander Philip had felt very desirous before setting out upon his great expedition into Asia to become reconciled to Alexander and Olympias He wished for Alexander's co operation in his plans and then besides it would be dangerous to go away from his own dominions with such a son left behind in a state of resentment and hostility Olympias and Alexander returned So Philip sent kind and conciliatory messages to Olympias and Alexander who had gone it will be recollected to Epirus where her friends resided The brother of Olympias was King of Epirus He had been at first incensed at the indignity which had been put upon his sister by Philip's treatment of her but Philip now tried to appease his anger also by friendly negotiations and messages At last he arranged a marriage between this King of Epirus and one of his own daughters and this completed the reconciliation Olympias and Alexander returned to Macedon and great preparations were made for a very splendid wedding The great wedding Philip wished to make this wedding not merely the means of confirming his reconciliation with his former wife and son and establishing friendly relations with the King of Epirus he also prized it as an occasion for paying marked and honorable attention to the princes and great generals of the other states of Greece He consequently made his preparations on a very extended and sumptuous scale and sent invitations to the influential and prominent men far and near These great men on the other hand and all the other public authorities in the various Grecian states sent compliments congratulations and presents to Philip each seeming ambitious to contribute his share to the splendor of the celebration They were not wholly disinterested in this it is true As Philip had been made commander in chief of the Grecian armies which were about to undertake the conquest of Asia and as of course his influence and power in all that related to that vast enterprise would be paramount and supreme and as all were ambitious to have a large share in the glory of that expedition and to participate as much as possible in the power and in the renown which seemed to be at Philip's disposal all were of course very anxious to secure his favor A short time before they were contending against him but now since he had established his ascendancy they all eagerly joined in the work of magnifying it and making it illustrious Preparations for the wedding Costly presents Nor could Philip justly complain of the hollowness and falseness of these professions of friendship The compliments and favors which he offered to them were equally hollow and heartless He wished to secure their favor as a means of aiding him up the steep path to fame and power which he was attempting to climb They wished for his in order that he might as he ascended himself help them up with him There was however the greatest appearance of cordial and devoted friendship Some cities sent him presents of golden crowns beautifully wrought and of high cost Others dispatched embassies expressing their good wishes for him and their confidence in the success of his plans Athens the city which was the great seat of literature and science in Greece sent a poem in which the history of the expedition into Persia was given by anticipation In this poem Philip was of course triumphantly successful in his enterprise He conducted his armies in safety through the most dangerous passes and defiles he fought glorious battles gained magnificent victories and possessed himself of all the treasures of Asiatic wealth and power
