Applying Career Development Theory To Counseling 5th Edition:

Psychodynamic, Affective, and Behavioral Theories to Psychotherapy Marty Sapp, 2010 The goal of this book is to examine three major theories and their approach to psychotherapy psychodynamic affective and behavioral which are defined as specific skills that a clinician or student can readily understand In this book these theories of psychotherapy are broken down into three phases or levels beginning Level I intermediate Level II and action Level III Theories that are Level I will be appropriate for establishing a counseling relationship Level II counseling skills further enhance this initial counseling relationship Level III theories are action oriented theories

Applying Career Development Theory to Counseling

Richard S. Sharf, 2002 Book is divided into an introduction and four parts trait and type theories life span theory special focus theories and theoretical integration Trait and type theories emphasize the assessment of interests abilities achievements personality and values along with the acquisition of occupational information Life span theory follows a chronological approach studying people across four broad stages in the life span Special focus theories include the application to career development issues of research in psychology such as constructivist theory and learning theory Part three also includes contributions from sociology and economics Part four deals with how these theories can be combined for effective career counseling The last chapter Chapter 16 also discusses the relevance of career development theories to special issues such as noncounseling interventions group counseling and job placement among other concerns Preface

Handbook of Career Development Gideon Arulmani, Anuradha J. Bakshi, Frederick T. L. Leong, A. G. Watts, 2014-02-08 This book is focused on work occupation and career development themes that are fundamental to a wide range of human activities and relevant across all cultures Yet theorizing and model building about this most ubiquitous of human activities from international perspectives have not been vigorous An examination of the literature pertaining to career development counseling and guidance that has developed over the last fifty years reveals theorizing and model building have been largely dominated by Western epistemologies some of the largest workforces in the world are in the developing world Career guidance is rapidly emerging as a strongly felt need in these contexts If more relevant models are to be developed frameworks from other cultures and economies must be recognized as providing constructs that would offer a deeper understanding of career development This does not mean that existing ideas are to be discarded Instead an integrative approach that blends universal principles with particular needs could offer a framework for theorizing research and practice that has wider relevance The central objective of this handbook is to draw the wisdom and experiences of different cultures together to consider both universal and specific principles for career guidance and counseling that are socially and economically relevant to contemporary challenges and issues This book is focused on extending existing concepts to broader contexts as well as introducing new concepts relevant to the discipline of career guidance and counseling

Exploring New Horizons in Career Counselling Kobus Maree, Annamaria Di Fabio, 2015-11-03

This book brings together eminent global theorists and practitioners to share their views on the evolution of career counselling in recent decades Multiple changes of a fundamental and complex nature as well as related challenges in the world of work have necessitated career counselling to undergo such an evolution The authors examine the future nature and scope of new directions in the field of career counselling psychology and they critically reflect on as well as promote the predominant theoretical and conceptual framework of the field of career counselling The latest models and methods in and for the 21st century are explored and teased out including Mark Savickas proposal to shift the focus in interventions from conceptualising the self as content to seeing the self as a process This approach is in keeping with the notion of career as a story and consistent with leading theories such as Jean Guichard's self construction framework and the life design paradigm The authors deliver an avant garde text that is easy to read and use without diluting the conceptual and terminological complexities of the field The book is an invaluable resource for new emerging and experienced researchers academics scholars researchers psychologists social workers teachers and clients It merges what is known about the field with emerging approaches It gives an overview of theoretical paradigms that can be applied to a changing world of work It makes a critical analysis of germane questions such as What does the future hold for the field of career counselling and how can challenges be turned into opportunities and How can different paradigms approaches and strategies be harnessed to promote clients career life wellbeing and resilience It facilitates an understanding of the skills necessary to deal with career related transitions challenges and barriers to help people acquire transferable career life skills and career choice readiness It examines the importance of career adaptability and how people can develop this vital 21st century survival competency It challenges career counsellors to grasp and acquire skills to promote and advocate social justice agendas It promotes and demonstrates the exciting and promising notion of dialogue writing to enhance the dialogical work of the career counsellor and client Individually and collectively the authors team up to blend retrospect and prospect and they make a concerted effort to convert 21st century challenges and frontiers in career counselling into opportunities hurt into hope hopelessness into inspiration

Vocational Identity and Career Construction in Education Fidan, Tuncer, 2018-12-14 Over the years careers have transformed to be flexible and changing rather than stable life long commitments to an organization As such making work meaningful controlling the work environment and taking the opportunity to get required training for the next job are as important as the financial advantages Educators careers cannot be isolated from the rest of the labor market and these developments are expected to influence the career decisions of educators Vocational Identity and Career Construction in Education uses career construction theory to investigate objective factors influencing career choices and paths of educators including factors influencing vocational personality development career counseling activities transition from school to work adaptation to different work environments and meaning of work for educators Featuring research on topics such as diagnosing career barriers person environment fit and workforce adaptability this book is designed for educational administrators human resources theorists students studying career related subjects and practitioners working in managerial positions in private and public educational organizations

Foundations of Forensic Vocational Rehabilitation Rick Robinson, 2013-12-03 Print CourseSmart Counselling for Career Construction J. G. Maree, 2013-09-03 In this book career counselling history best practices as well as contemporary models and methods are brought together In reflecting on the past present and future of career counselling the story of the postmodern narrative or career construction approach and the model and methods used to advance careers in the 21st century is told A meta reflection concept is proposed based on career construction principles and practices and aimed at providing an examination of repeated reflection in career counselling Overall an attempt is made to craft a text that is not just specifically instructive but also more generally so Whereas the theory section includes much that is hands on and practical the inclusion of narratives in the practice section turns theory into practice Narratives illustrate the complexity and contextuality of partnering with clients toward re designed lives Ultimately the volume aims to demonstrate how Mark Savickas counselling for career construction approach can be used by clients to connect life themes in order to construct life portraits under the guidance of counsellors Career Development Across the Lifespan Grafton T.
