Three Day Road By Joseph Boyden:

Catching the Torch Neta Gordon, 2014-03-25 Catching the Torch examines contemporary novels and plays written about Canada's participation in World War I. Exploring such works as Jane Urquhart's The Underpainter and The Stone Carvers, Jack Hodgins's Broken Ground, Kevin Kerr's Unity 1918, Stephen Massicotte's Mary's Wedding and Frances Itani's Deafening, the book considers how writers have dealt with the compelling myth that the Canadian nation was born in the trenches of the Great War. In contrast to British and European remembrances of WWI which tend to regard it as a cataclysmic destroyer of innocence or Australian myths that promote an ideal of outsize masculinity, physical bravery and white superiority, contemporary Canadian texts conjure up notions of distinctively Canadian values: tolerance of ethnic difference, the ability to do one's duty without complaint or arrogance, and the inclination to show moral as well as physical courage. Paradoxically, Canadians are shown to decry the horrors of war while making use of its productive cultural effects. Through a close analysis of the way sacrifice, service and the commemoration of war are represented in these literary works, Catching the Torch argues that iterations of a secure mythic notion of national identity, one that is articulated via the representation of straightforward civic and military participation, work to counter current anxieties about the stability of the nation-state in particular anxieties about the failure of the ideal of a national character.

Three Day Road Joseph Boyden, 2010-09-09 The stories of an American Indian sniper caught up in the Great War and of his aunt, one of the last Cree Indians to live off the land, are intertwined in a mesmerising journey as they travel home over three days. This beautiful, haunting novel begins as Niska is reunited with her nephew Xavier after he returns from the horrors of the First World War. As she slowly paddles her canoe on the 3-day journey to take him home, travelling through the stark but stunning landscape of Northern Canada, their respective stories emerge. Niska is the last Cree Indian woman living off the land in Canada. She recalls her memories of growing up among her kinsfolk, of trying to remain true to her ancestors and traditions in a rapidly changing world. Xavier joined the war reluctantly at the urging of his only friend, Elijah, a Cree boy raised in the reservation schools. Elijah and Xavier honed their hunting skills as snipers in the horrors of the trenches and the wastes of No Man's Land. But as the war continues, they react in very different ways to the never-ending carnage around them. Niska realises that in the aftermath of war, Xavier's very soul is dying, but will the three-day journey home be enough to help him find hope again.

Prizing Scottish Literature Stevie Marsden, 2021-02-15 This cultural history of the Saltire Society Literary Awards demonstrates the significance the awards have had within Scottish literary and cultural life It is one piece of the wider cultural award puzzle and illustrates how far from being parochial or niche lesser known awards whose histories may be yet untold play their own role in the circulation of cultural value through the consecration of literary value The study of the Society's Book of the Year and First Book of the Year Awards not only highlights how important connections between literary awards and national culture and identity are within prize culture and how literary awards and their founding institutions can be products of the socio political and cultural milieu in which they form but this study also illustrates how existing literary award scholarship has only begun to scratch the surface of the complexities of the phenomenon This book promotes a new approach to considering literary prizes proposing that the concept of the literary awards hierarchy can contribute to emerging and developing discourses pertaining to literary and indeed cultural prizes more broadly

Carnivalizing Reconciliation Hanna Teichler, 2021-10-15 Transitional justice and national inquiries may be the most established means for coming to terms with traumatic legacies but it is in the more subtle social and cultural processes of memory work that the pitfalls and promises of reconciliation are laid bare This book analyzes within the realms of literature and film recent Australian and Canadian attempts to reconcile with Indigenous populations in the wake of forced child removal As Hanna Teichler demonstrates their systematic emphasis on the subjectivity of the victim is problematic reproducing simplistic narratives and identities defined by victimization Such fictions of reconciliation venture beyond simplistic narratives and identities defined by victimization offering new opportunities for confronting painful histories

Prizing Literature Gillian Roberts, 2011-10-29 When Canadian authors win prestigious literary prizes from the Governor General's Literary Award to the Man Booker Prize they are celebrated not only for their achievements but also for contributing to this country's cultural capital Discussions about culture national identity and citizenship are particularly complicated when the honorees are immigrants like Michael Ondaatje Carol Shields or Rohinton Mistry Then there is the case of Yann Martel who is identified both as Canadian and as rootlessly cosmopolitan How have these writers' identities been recalibrated in order to claim them as representative Canadians Prizing Literature is the first extended study of contemporary award winning Canadian literature and the ways in which we celebrate its authors Gillian Roberts uses theories of hospitality to examine how prize winning authors are variously received and honoured depending on their
