Ethics, Security, and The War-Machine Ned Dobos, 2020-05-07 If pacifists are correct in thinking that war is always unjust then it follows that we ought to eliminate the possibility and temptation of ever engaging in it we should not build war making capacity and if we already have then demilitarization or military abolition would seem to be the appropriate course to take On the other hand if war is sometimes justified as many believe then it must be permissible to prepare for it by creating and maintaining a military establishment Yet this view that the justifiability of war making is also sufficient to justify war building is mistaken This book addresses questions of jus ante bellum or justice before war Under what circumstances is it justifiable for a polity to prepare for war by militarizing. When if ever and why if at all is it morally permissible to create and maintain the potential to wage war? In doing so it highlights the ways in which a civilian population compromises its own security in maintaining a permanent military establishment, explores the moral and social costs of militarization and evaluates whether or not these costs are worth bearing.

The Cult of the Victim-Veteran Jerry Lembcke, 2023-07-17 Choice Editors' Picks for April 2024 2024 Choice Review Outstanding Academic Title OAT Award Winner The Cult of the Victim-Veteran explores the pool of American post-Vietnam War angst that rightists began plying in the 1980s. Ronald Reagan's 1984 proclamation of a new Morning in America encoded the war as the moment of the nation's fall from grace; it was the meme plagiarized by Donald Trump for his Make America Great Again (MAGA) slogan. The national funk tapped for right-wing revanchism was psychologized when George H. W. Bush appropriated post-Vietnam syndrome, the diagnostic forerunner to post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), to memorialize the military accomplishments in the Persian Gulf War of 1990-1991: we had kicked the Vietnam Syndrome. America was a victim nation; its trauma emblemized by PTSD-stricken veterans whose war mission had been lost on the home front, cast aside even spat on upon return home. In this book we see the long historical threads woven for MAGA: the twining of traditional and modern ways of knowing that imbues war trauma with political and cultural properties that complicate its diagnostic use; the post-World War I disclosure that many shellshock patients had never been exposed to exploding shells and the use of wounded veteran imagery to fan the flames of German fascism; the cultural necessity of reimagining antiwar Vietnam veterans as psychiatric casualties that calls forth a new diagnostic category, PTSD; the derivatizing of PTSD for traumatic brain injury, Agent Orange, and moral injury; and the victim-veteran figure as metaphor for a wounded America for which MAGA is the remedy.

Chemical Heroes Andrew Bickford, 2020-11-16 In Chemical Heroes Andrew Bickford analyzes the US military's attempts to design performance enhancement technologies and create pharmacological supersoldiers capable of withstanding extreme trauma. Bickford traces the deep history of efforts to biologically fortify and extend the health and lethal power of soldiers from the Cold War era into the twenty-first century: from early adoptions of mandatory immunizations to bio-protective gear to the development and spread of new performance-enhancing drugs during the global War on Terrorism. In his examination of government efforts to alter soldiers' bodies through new technologies, Bickford invites us to contemplate what constitutes heroism when armor becomes built-in, wired-in, and even edited into the molecular being of an American soldier. Lurking in the background and dark recesses of all US military enhancement research, Bickford demonstrates, is the desire to preserve US military and imperial power.

Moral Injury and the Humanities Andrew I. Cohen, Kathryn McClymond, 2023-08-11 This book brings together leading interdisciplinary scholars to broaden and deepen the conversation about moral injury. In the original chapters, the contributors present new research to show how the humanities are crucial for understanding the expressions, meaning, and significance of moral injury. Moral injury is the disorientation we suffer when we are complicit in some moral transgression.

Most existing works address moral injury from a clinical or neuroscientific perspective. The chapters in this volume show how the humanities are crucial for understanding the meaning and significance of moral injury as well as suggesting how to grapple with its lived challenges. The chapters address the conceptual, sociological, historical, and ritualistic dimensions of moral injury across three thematic sections. Section 1 explores how tools of the humanities provide new lenses for understanding conceptual and genealogical themes about moral injury. Section 2 highlights the experiences of moral injury in combat, soldiers, law enforcement, and noncombatants such as photojournalists. These chapters examine the power and limits to theorizing moral phenomena by appeals to lived experience. Section 3 considers how humanistic inquiry illuminates important dimensions of the aftermath of moral injury beyond the scope of clinical research. These chapters consider how ritual, relationship repair, and atonement might shape the ways people navigate moral injury and consider how such responses shape our understanding of what we owe to one another. Moral Injury and the Humanities: Interdisciplinary Perspectives is an essential resource for researchers and advanced students in philosophy, religious studies, literature, journalism, and the arts who are interested in moral injury.

War and Health Catherine Lutz, Andrea Mazzarino, 2019-11-05. Provides a detailed look at how war affects human life and health far beyond the battlefield. Since 2010, a team of activists, social scientists, and physicians have monitored the lives lost as a result of the US wars in Iraq, Afghanistan, and Pakistan through an initiative called the Costs of War Project. Unlike most studies of war casualties, this research looks beyond lives lost in violence to consider those who have died as a result of illness, injuries, and malnutrition that would not have occurred had the war not taken place. Incredibly, the Cost of War Project has found that of the more than 1,000,000 lives lost in the recent US wars, a minimum of 800,000 died not from violence but from indirect causes. War and Health offers a critical examination of these indirect casualties, examining health outcomes on the battlefield and elsewhere in hospitals, homes, and refugee camps, both during combat and in the years following, as communities struggle to live normal lives despite decimated social services, lack of access to medical care, ongoing illness and disability, malnutrition, loss of infrastructure, and increased substance abuse. The volume considers the effect of the war on both civilians and on US service members in war zones where healthcare systems have been destroyed by long-term conflict and in the United States where healthcare is highly developed. Ultimately, it draws much-needed attention to the far-reaching health consequences of the recent US wars and argues that we cannot go to war and remain at war without understanding the catastrophic effect war has on the entire ecosystem of human health.

The Big Push Cynthia Enloe, 2017-10-26. For over a century, and in scores of countries, patriarchal presumptions and practices have been challenged by women and their male allies. Sexual harassment has entered common parlance, police departments are equipped with rape kits, more than half of the national legislators in Bolivia and Rwanda are women, and a woman candidate won the plurality of the popular votes in the 2016 United States presidential election. But have we really reached equality and overthrown a patriarchal point of view? The Big Push exposes how patriarchal ideas and relationships continue to be modernized to this day Through contemporary cases and reports renowned political scientist Cynthia Enloe exposes the workings of everyday patriarchy in how Syrian women civil society activists have been excluded from international peace negotiations how sexual harassment became institutionally accepted within major news organizations or in how the UN Secretary General's post has remained a masculine domain Enloe then lays out strategies and skills for challenging patriarchal attitudes and operations Encouraging self reflection she guides us in the discomforting curiosity of reviewing our own personal complicity in sustaining patriarchy in order to withdraw our own support for it Timely and globally conscious The Big Push is a call for feminist self reflection and strategic action with a belief that exposure complements resistance

Dear John Susan L. Carruthers, 2022-01-06 Are Dear John letters lethal weapons in the hands of men at war Many US officers servicemen veterans and civilians would say yes Drawing on personal letters oral histories and psychiatric reports as well as popular music and movies Susan L Carruthers shows how the armed forces and civilian society have attempted to weaponize romantic love in pursuit of martial ends from World War II to today Yet efforts to discipline feeling have frequently failed And women have often borne the blame This sweeping history of emotional life in wartime explores the interplay between letter writing and storytelling breakups and breakdowns and between imploded intimacy and boosted camaraderie Incorporating vivid personal experiences in lively and engaging prose variously tragic comic and everything in between this compelling study will change the way we think about wartime relationships

Masculinities at the Margins Amanda Chisholm, Joanna Tidy, 2020-05-18 Across a rich terrain of empirical and theoretical trajectories the concept of military masculinity now understood in its plural as military masculinities has been a significant conceptual tool in both feminist international relations IR and in critical men and masculinities studies scholarship The concept has helped us to unpack the relationships between gender war and militarism including how military standards function in the production of wider normative hegemonic manliness As such military masculinities has been a rewarding tool for many scholars who take a critical approach to the study of war and the military This edited volume advances an emerging curiosity within accounts of military masculinities This curiosity concerns the silences within and disruptions to our well established and perhaps too comfortable understandings of and empirical focal points for military masculinities gender and war The contributors to this volume trouble the ease with which we might be tempted to synonymize militaries war and a neat hegemonic masculinity Taking the disruptions the asides and the silences seriously challenges the common wisdoms of military masculinities gender and war in productive and necessary ways Doing so necessitates a reorientation of where to whom and for what we look to understand the operation of gendered military power The chapters were originally published in a special issue of Critical Military Studies

A Realist Account of Stress, PTSD, and Resilience Frank Tortorello, 2021-09-30 This book rejects traditional dominant typically reductive and anti realist explanations of stress PTSD and resilience Frank Tortorello presents the United States Marine Corps doctrinal explanation of stress PTSD and resilience

as a case in point using new realist theoretical resources from Rom Harr and Charles R Varela The author systematically exposes the scientific and ethical failures of traditional explanations in accounting for the actions of stressed and resilient Marines on and off the battlefield The power of new realist explanations emerges in application to the same ethnographic data thereby supporting the author s call to replace traditional explanations with those grounded in new realism Widen the Window Elizabeth Stanley,2019-09-24 A pioneering researcher gives us a new understanding of stress and trauma as well as the tools to heal and thrive This groundbreaking book examines the cultural norms that impede resilience in America especially our collective tendency to disconnect stress from its potentially extreme consequences and override our need to recover It explains the science of how to direct our attention to perform under stress and recover from trauma exploring how our survival brain and thinking brain react to traumatic situations differently By directing our attention in particular ways we can widen the window within which our thinking brain and survival brain work together cooperatively When we use awareness to regulate our biology this way we can access our best uniquely human qualities our compassion courage curiosity creativity and connection with others By building our resilience we can train ourselves to make wise decisions and access choice even during times of incredible stress uncertainty and change With stories from men and women Dr Stanley has trained in settings as varied as military bases healthcare facilities as well as her own striking experiences with stress and trauma she gives readers hands on strategies they can use themselves whether they want to perform under pressure or heal from traumatic experience while at the same time pointing our understanding in a new direction Foreword by Bessel Van Der Kolk bestselling author of The Body Keeps the Score Widen the Window is a comprehensive overview of stress and trauma responses to it and tools for healing and thriving It s not only for those in high intensity work but for everyone Mindful Magazine Grateful Nation Ellen Moore,2017-10-26 In today s volunteer military many recruits enlist for the educational benefits yet a significant number of veterans struggle in the classroom and many drop out The difficulties faced by student veterans have been attributed to various factors poor academic preparation PTSD and other postwar ailments and allegedly antimilitary sentiments on college campuses In Grateful Nation Ellen Moore challenges these narratives by tracing the experiences of Iraq and Afghanistan war veterans at two California college campuses Drawing on interviews with dozens of veterans classroom observations and assessments of the work of veteran support organizations Moore finds that veterans academic struggles result from their military training and combat experience which complicate their ability to function in civilian schools While there is little evidence of antimilitary bias on college campuses Moore demonstrates the ways in which college programs that conflate support for veterans with support for the institutional military lead to suppression of campus debate about the wars discourage antiwar activism and encourage a growing militarization
