It is 2007 and Austria is in the grip of a sinister epidemic: Indigo Syndrome. Children are the carriers, and anyone who comes near them is afflicted with severe headaches, nausea, and vertigo. These Indigo children are sent away to the Helianau Institute in Styria, in the mountainous heart of the country, a protected zone where they cannot affect the wider population. There, one of the teachers, Clemens Setz, witnesses students being taken away in strange masks. They never come back. When Setz tries to find out what is going on, he swiftly loses his job, but he doesn't give up trying to uncover Helianau's dark secrets. Fourteen years later, in 2021, former Indigo child Robert Tatzel notices an article in the newspaper about his old teacher. Clemens Setz has just been acquitted in a brutal murder trial. But Tatzel harbours resentments against Setz from his days at Helianau and decides to investigate. Setz, in a world uncannily familiar and yet entirely strange, is part thrilling detective story, part post-modern puzzle. Clemens J. Setz has written a novel that will change the way we read novels and change the way we look at the world. Sublime Voices, Christopher Bolton, 2020-03-17. Since the 1950s, Abe Kōbō (1924–1993) has achieved an international reputation for his surreal or grotesque brand of avant-garde literature. From his early forays into science fiction to his more mature psychological novels and films, and finally the complicated experimental works produced near the end of his career, Abe weaves together a range of voices, the styles of science and the language of literary forms. In Abe's oeuvre, this stylistic interplay links questions of language and subjectivity with issues of national identity and technological development in a way that ultimately aspires to become the catalyst for an artistic revolution. While recognizing the disruptions such a revolution might entail, Abe's texts embrace these disjunctions as a way of realizing radical new possibilities beyond everyday experience and everyday values. By arguing that the crisis of identity and postwar anomie in Abe's works is inseparable from the need to marshal these different scientific and literary voices, Christopher Bolton explores how this reconciliation of ideas and dialects is for Abe part of the process whereby texts and individuals form themselves. A search for identity that must take place at the level of the self and society at large. After Beckett, Anthony Uhlmann, Sjoukje Houppermans, Bruno Clément, 2004. This volume constitutes a collection of over 40 articles selected from contributions to the Sydney Symposium of January 2003, that as a part of an International Sydney Festival was one of the major events related to Samuel Beckett of the last decade. The three sections of the book reflect the most vibrant fields of research in Beckett studies today: Intertextuality and Theory, Philosophy and Theory, and Textual Genesis, Contextual Genesis, and Language. Scholars from all over the world participating in this collection testify to the durable and universal nature of interest in Beckett's work.

Imperial Beast Fables, Kaori Nagai, 2020-07-28. This book coins the term imperial beast fable to explore modern forms of human-animal relationships and their origins in the British Empire. Taking as a starting point the long nineteenth century fascination with non European beast fables it examines literary reworkings of these fables such as Rudyard Kipling's Jungle Books in relation to the global politics of race language and species The imperial beast fable figures variably as a key site where the nature and origins of mankind are hotly debated an emerging space of conservation in which humans enclose animals to manage and control them a cage in which an animal narrator talks to change its human jailors and a vision of animal cosmopolitanism in which a close kinship between humans and other animals is dreamt of Written at the intersection of animal studies and postcolonial studies this book proposes that the beast fable embodies the ideologies and values of the British Empire while also covertly critiquing them It therefore finds in the beast fable the possibility that the multitudinous animals it gives voice to might challenge the imperial networks which threaten their existence both in the nineteenth century and today

The Box Man Kobo Abe, 2011-12-14 Kobo Abe the internationally acclaimed author of Woman in the Dunes combines wildly imaginative fantasies and naturalistic prose to create narratives reminiscent of the work of Kafka and Beckett In this eerie and evocative masterpiece the nameless protagonist gives up his identity and the trappings of a normal life to live in a large cardboard box he wears over his head Wandering the streets of Tokyo and scribbling madly on the interior walls of his box he describes the world outside as he sees or perhaps imagines it a tenuous reality that seems to include a mysterious rifleman determined to shoot him a seductive young nurse and a doctor who wants to become a box man himself The Box Man is a marvel of sheer originality and a bizarrely fascinating fable about the very nature of identity Translated from the Japanese by E Dale Saunders

The Ruined Map Kobo Abe, 2011-12-14 Of all the great Japanese novelists Kobo Abe was indubitably the most versatile With The Ruined Map he crafted a mesmerizing literary crime novel that combines the narrative suspense of Chandler with the psychological depth of Dostoevsky Mr Nemuro a respected salesman disappeared over half a year ago but only now does his alluring yet alcoholic wife hire a private eye The nameless detective has but two clues a photo and a matchbook With these he embarks upon an ever more puzzling pursuit that leads him into the depths of Tokyo's dangerous underworld where he begins to lose the boundaries of his own identity Surreal fast paced and hauntingly dreamlike Abe's masterly novel delves into the unknowable mysteries of the human mind Translated from the Japanese by E Dale Saunders
