Magic City By Jewell Parker Rhodes:

Magic City Jewell Parker Rhodes, 1997 A fictionalized account based on the true story of a white woman who accused a black man of rape in Tulsa Oklahoma in 1921 in order to avoid a forced marriage to the farmhand who actually raped her The resulting riots pitted the National Guard against the community of Greenwood known as the Negro Wall Street and resulted in the complete destruction of that town

Art from Trauma Rangira Béa Gallimore, Gerise Herndon, 2019-08-01 What is the role of aesthetic expression in responding to discrimination tragedy violence even genocide How does gender shape responses to both literal and structural violence including implicit linguistic familial and cultural violence How might writing or other works of art contribute to healing

Art from Trauma Genocide and Healing beyond Rwanda explores the possibility of art as therapeutic capable of implementation by mental health practitioners crafting mental health policy in Rwanda This anthology of scholarly personal and hybrid essays was inspired by scholar and activist Chantal Kalisa 1965 2015 At the commemoration of the nineteenth anniversary of the genocide in Rwanda organized by the Rwandan Embassy in Washington DC Kalisa gave a presentation Who Speaks for the Survivors of the Genocide against Tutsi Kalisa devoted her energy to giving expression to those whose voices had been distorted or silenced The essays in this anthology address how the production and experience of visual dramatic cinematic and musical arts in addition to literary arts contribute to healing from the trauma of mass violence offering preliminary responses to questions like Kalisa's and honoring her by continuing the dialogue in which she participated with such passion sharing the work of scholars and colleagues in genocide studies gender studies and francophone literatures

Dissonant Records Tanya E. Clement, 2024-08-06 How archives obscure recorded media and the case in favor of discovering them Silence is not absence It may be perceived as meaningless or it may not be perceived at all but it takes up space In Dissonant Records Tanya Clement makes the case for spoken word audio recordings within the archives She explains why we tend to not use these audio recordings in research what silences exist in the cultural record and what difference it makes when we start to listen From recordings of the survivors of the 1921 Tulsa Massacre to Anne Sexton's recorded therapy sessions Clement illustrates the myriad ways in which our current use of archives precludes the use of invaluable recorded texts Whom what and how are we not studying in our cultural histories Why Clement asks do audio recordings typically garner little interest This book dissects the institutional and disciplinary blockades that discourage the use of spoken word audio recordings in research and teaching while interrogating how institutions and researchers can be selectively biased in favor of print and against the seemingly more ephemeral time based objects of our archives History making is a messy sociotechnical process the author explains and our understanding of culture can only be made better when we listen more closely to the noise

Let Us Build Us a City Tracy Daugherty, 2017 Daugherty considers the principles of literary art in a series of essays that focus on the nature of artistic vision and the creative individual's relationship to the world The book reads like a master class on writing as practice
