What It Is Like to Go to War Karl Marlantes, 2011-08-30 A precisely crafted and bracingly honest memoir of war and its aftershocks from the New York Times bestselling author of Matterhorn The Atlantic In 1968 at the age of twenty three Karl Marlantes was dropped into the highland jungle of Vietnam an inexperienced lieutenant in command of forty Marines who would live or die by his decisions In his thirteen month tour he saw intense combat killing the enemy and watching friends die Marlantes survived but like many of his brothers in arms he has spent the last forty years dealing with his experiences In What It Is Like to Go to War Marlantes takes a candid look at these experiences and critically examines how we might better prepare young soldiers for war In the past warriors were prepared for battle by ritual religion and literature which also helped bring them home While contemplating ancient works from Homer to the Mahabharata Marlantes writes of the daily contradictions modern warriors are subject to of being haunted by the face of a young North Vietnamese soldier he killed at close quarters and of how he finally found a way to make peace with his past Through it all he demonstrates just how poorly prepared our nineteen year old warriors are for the psychological and spiritual aspects of the journey In this memoir the New York Times bestselling author of Matterhorn offers a well crafted and forcefully argued work that contains fresh and important insights into what it is like to be in a war and what it does to the human psyche The Washington Post

Matterhorn Karl Marlantes, 2011 In the tradition of Norman Mailer's The Naked and the Dead and James Jones's The Thin Red Line Marlantes tells the powerful and compelling story of a young Marine lieutenant Waino Mellas and his comrades in Bravo Company who are dropped into the mountain jungle of Vietnam as boys and forced to fight their way into manhood
