"The Poor, the Crippled, the Blind, and the Lame" Louise A. Gosbell,2018-08-03 The New Testament gospels feature numerous social exchanges between Jesus and people with various physical and sensory disabilities Despite this traditional biblical scholarship has not seen these people as agents in their own right but existing only to highlight the actions of Jesus as a miracle worker In this study Louise A Gosbell uses disability as a lens through which to explore a number of these passages anew Using the cultural model of disability as the theoretical basis she explores the way that the gospel writers as with other writers of the ancient world used the language of disability as a means of understanding organising and interpreting the experiences of humanity Her investigation highlights the ways in which the gospel writers reinforce and reflect as well as subvert culturally driven constructions of disability in the ancient world Even Dawkins Has a God Neil Laing,2014-08-27 Richard Dawkins s The God Delusion is one of the most serious attacks on religion in recent times A number of highly capable authors have countered it Neil s reply is different from most He finds areas of agreement with Dawkins over a number of his assessments of religion while exposing his erroneous understanding of the nature of God He shows that Dawkins s attack on God is irrelevant even though he successfully demolishes what he imagines is the Christian god At the same time Neil tries to equip Christians to come to an informed intelligent position to lose their fears of science and to see its wonderful strengths He challenges the assumptions made particularly by the New Atheists in imagining that faith is a childish approach to origins and furthermore that their own views are similar to some religions so that they virtually have a god themselves Tackling thorny topics like the meaning of faith miracles morality and righteousness Neil honestly appraises Christian views tries to debunk misconceptions about these topics and shows that science and faith can be mutually enhancing J-Curve Paul E.
