The Light-Green Society Michael Bess,2003-11-15 The accelerating interpenetration of nature and culture is the hallmark of the new light green social order that has emerged in postwar France argues Michael Bess in this penetrating new history On one hand a preoccupation with natural qualities and equilibrium has increasingly infused France s economic and cultural life On the other human activities have laid an ever more potent and pervasive touch on the environment whether through the intrusion of agriculture industry and urban growth or through the much subtler and more well intentioned efforts of ecological management The Light Green Society limns sharply these trends over the last fifty years The rise of environmentalism in the 1960s stemmed from a fervent desire to save wild nature nature conceived as a qualitatively distinct domain wholly separate from human designs and endeavors And yet Bess shows after forty years of environmentalist agitation much of it remarkably successful in achieving its aims the old conception of nature as a separate sphere has become largely untenable In the light green society where ecology and technological modernity continually flow together a new hybrid vision of intermingled nature culture has increasingly taken its place Jean de Florette and Manon of the Springs Marcel Pagnol,1988 Did Somebody Say Totalitarianism? Slavoj Žižek,Slavoj Žižek,2002 Totalitarianism as an ideological notion has always had a precise strategic function to guarantee the liberal democratic hegemony by dismissing the Leftist critique of liberal democracy as the obverse the twin of the Rightist Fascist dictatorships Instead of providing yet another systematic exposition of the history of this notion Žižek s book addresses totalitarianism in a Wittgensteinian way as a cobweb of family resemblances He concludes that the devil lies not so much in the detail of what constitutes totalitarianism as in what enables the very designation totalitarian the liberal democratic consensus itself The Water of the Hills Marcel Pagnol,1989 World Film Locations: Marseilles Marcelline Block,2013-01-01 As France s oldest city Marseilles has a significant cinematic culture dating back to the 1890s when the Lumière brothers shot many films there. Due to its prolific film industry in the 1920s, Marseilles was referred to as the French Los Angeles. World Film Locations Marseilles examines the representations of this port city in cinema through essays and film scene reviews devoted to an exploration of its topography as depicted by Jean Epstein, Jean-Luc Godard, Jean-Pierre Melville, Jean Renoir, Jean-Jacques Beineix, and many others. This volume showcases Marseilles's diversity as articulated onscreen from the winding streets of the Panier to the Old Port's noisy markets from the bustling Canebière to the dockyards of the Grand Port Maritime from the cliffs of Provence encircling the city to sun-drenched calanques leading to the dazzling cerulean sea. World Film Locations Marseilles features maps of film scenes, high-quality screengrabs, and images of movie locations as they appear today, accompanied by original texts penned by leading international film scholars and critics, and an interview with Marseillais director Robert Guédiguian. Marseilles has been named a 2013-14 European Capital of Culture, and this book is a fitting and timely tribute.

Identity Papers Steven Ungar, Tom Conley, 1996-01-01. What does citizenship mean? What is the process of naturalization one goes through in becoming a citizen, and what is its connection to assimilation? How do the issues of identity raised by this process manifest themselves in culture? These questions and the way they arise in contemporary France are the focus of this diverse collection. The essays in this volume range in subject from fiction and essay to architecture and film. Among the topics discussed are the 1937 Exposition Universelle, films dealing with Vichy France, François Truffaut's Histoire d'Adèle H., the war of Algerian independence, and nation building under François Mitterrand. Amazon.com. Ill Met by Moonlight René Weis, 2023-09-29. On a steamy August night in 1952, a British family settles down to sleep beside their car in a lay-by. Before daybreak, all three of them—a father, a mother, and their ten-year-old daughter—have been brutally murdered. In a remote corner of Provence, two worlds collide under a full moon. The British family are pioneering scientists and cosmopolitans; the French family, accused of the crime, are farmers defined by their land and codes of conduct which struck outsiders as feral The accused farmers closed ranks and lied repeatedly in the shadow of the guillotine and to save the family's honour An inspector calls With extraordinary tenacity he tracks down the man dubbed the monster of the farm of the damned This is the true story of the most contested murder in France since the Second World War the inspiration for films and tales of espionage hit squads wartime bullion treasure and chemical weapons research Doubts still linger locally in this part of France as to the final judicial outcome Conspiracy theories about the reason for the murders are routinely aired and some family members of the man finally convicted of the crime still claim his innocence The Transparent Illusion Rebecca M. Pauly, 1993 This unique study interprets forty major French films their texts and intertexts analyzing them both as windows on their subject projections of the imagination and as frames or mirrors reflecting the cultural contexts that produced them They are grouped in three major categories foregrounding their relationship to history literature or the filmmaking process itself in ascending order of opacity and modernity This much needed work offers not only comparative cultural perspectives on French text and film but also a better understanding of the poetics of image and ideology An Introduction to World Cinema, 2d ed. Aristides Gazetas, 2016-04-28 Motion pictures are more than just entertainment In film studies courses in colleges and universities worldwide students and professors explore the social political technological and historical implications of cinema This textbook provides two things the history of film as an art form and an analysis of its impact on society and politics Chapters are arranged chronologically covering the major developments in film like the advent of talkies or the French New Wave Each era is examined in the context of several exemplary films commonly viewed in film studies courses Thus students can watch Birth of a Nation and Intolerance while studying the innovations made by D W Griffith from 1910 to 1919 The scope is global embracing the cinematic traditions of Asia Latin America and Africa as well as the ever important American and European output Thoughtful articles from film scholars are included The flexible structure of the text allows a variety of options for classroom use or personal study Instructors considering this book for use in a course may request an examination copy here Past Forward Dayna Oscherwitz, 2010-09-15 In Past Forward French Cinema and the Post Colonial Heritage author Dayna Oscherwitz focuses on the world of French films with a new lens Drawing upon a wealth of research and the examination of popular French movies Oscherwitz offers fresh perspectives not only on the unique importance of motion pictures and their indelible influence on French character but on current debates regarding individual and collective memory Past Forward traces the development and ascension of the French heritage film those historical and costume dramas focusing on prestigious French subjects events and settings These motion pictures preeminent during a period of globalization and fear over the affects of immigration in 1980s France quickly came to embody a specific version of French national and collective identity one that idealized the past condemned the present and created an institutional form of memory Oscherwitz presents the intriguing notion that French heritage films are not exclusively expressions of nationalism and nostalgia as has commonly been asserted

On the contrary although these movies were born out of a perceived loss of French culture their ambivalence toward traditional hallmarks of nationalism opens them up to new interpretation Also in contrast to typical conceptions the author suggests that these heritage films are far from cinematic bastions of multicultural backlash instead she argues popular culture has in its own fashion reinserted the history of colonialism and immigration into the national past thus reimagining heritage itself Against this backdrop Oscherwitz goes on to investigate the multicultural worlds of beur and banlieue movies cinema seemingly in direct contrast with the heritage film offering the theory that these films serve as a countermemory to an institutionalized one and provide alternative models of collective memory and identity Through careful analysis of several examples Oscherwitz demonstrates how these two seemingly different realms heritage and multicultural cinema are far from mutually exclusive in the construction of French identity Throughout the volume numerous well known French movies are reexamined inviting new interpretations of and challenging old views through investigations of familiar cinematic works Past Forward is a revolutionary volume that boldly reimagines our ideas about French film and its role in communicating history and memory
