Life Beyond Shame: Rewriting the Rules Connie Dawson, PhD, 2016-03-18 We've lived for eons with a set of rules guiding how we have relationships with one another. These Old Rules have without question been inadvertently passed without examination from generation to generation by our families. It's past time to expose them to the light of day. Why? Together these Old Rules create a toxic environment we accept as inviolate. We struggle against others and against ourselves not realizing that the shame-based Old Rules hold us back from being who we are meant to be and doing what we are meant to do. When feelings of undeserved shame something is wrong with us become part of how we think of ourselves, two things are true: 1. our true selves become more defended and less available to ourselves and others and 2. we become more easily manipulated to serve someone else's needs in ways that are not in our best interests. That sense of shame and the Old Rules reinforce each other. One look at them and it's easy to see how they make it difficult to have healthy relationships. They are definitely not conducive to happiness. We know better. We just need to know how to do better. One rule at a time. Unmasking and replacing Old Rules with even one of the New Rules begins to change everything. Change the rules, change the game.

The Self-Shaming God Who Reconciles Warner M. Bailey, 2013-06-10 Trust is at the heart of healthy relationships When trust is broken the victim is made to feel as nothing The Bible calls this experience of betrayal to be shamed When the victim names God as the betrayer those who exercise pastoral care in the church are faced with a spiritual crisis Pastors and those who exercise pastoral care are led through biblical study and theological reflection to insights that strengthen their role in the recovery of both the victims and the perpetrators of betrayal Central to this recovery is the solidarity of the self shaming God with both victim and perpetrator At the cross shame reaches its most intense expression as Jesus voices his abandonment by God Centering this pivotal experience in a doctrine of the Trinity makes clear how shame defines the very core of the redemptive work of God as Father Son and Spirit Through the resurrection of Jesus God triumphs over shame and this vindication of God's integrity is the basis for the evangelistic preaching of the early church The Self Shaming God Who Reconciles underscores how Scripture functions as a theological document when interpreted canonically

(Beyond) Posthuman Violence: Epic Rewritings of Ethics in the Contemporary Novel Claudio Murgia,2019-12-02

Neuroscience tells us that the brain is nothing but a metaphor machine capable of extracting meaning from a chaotic reality Following Agamben Arendt Benjamin and i ek a theory of violence can be established according to which violence is a reaction on the part of the individual to the frustration generated by having her metaphor machine suppressed by the mythic narrative of the Law In opposition to mythic violence Benjamin posits the justice of divine violence Divine justice is an excess of life the very uniqueness of the metaphor machine The individual is affected by a difficulty to communicate her metaphor machine to the Other as if it were inexpressible This work explores how the characters in the works of David Foster Wallace

Cormac MacCarthy J G Ballard Bret Easton Ellis Chuck Palahniuk William Gibson Neal Stephenson Maurice G Dantec and China Mieville suffer from these limits of language and the constrictions of the Law Through violence they look for their individual Voice intended as their will to say the pure taking place of language Agamben In their struggle to be heard these characters are however deaf to the Voice of the Other There is a need for a new Ethics of Narratives expressed through an Epic of the Voice founded on the will to listen along the lines of the concept of the posthuman theorized by Rosi Braidotti Here subjectivity is a process of constant autopoiesis dependent on the relationship the individual has with the Other and the environment around her that is in the reciprocal will to say and will to listen Human beings can meet in the taking place of language in the place before the suppressive language of the Law is even born in a meeting of Voices
