including naval architects dockyard workers commercial shipowners and Navy officers By locating the ship's reinvention within the contexts of builders owners and users they illustrate the ways in which material elements as well as scientific artisan and seafaring ideas and practices were bound together in the construction of ships complex identities

A Muse of Fire Arnold D. Harvey, 1998-01-01 This is the first book to relate to the literature and art of the First World War to the literature and art produced by the Second World War and by earlier wars A Muse of Fire is also the first serious attempt to examine the whole range of war poetry and war fiction in English in its relation to the work of German French Italian and to a lesser extent Russian Danish and Hungarian authors Before 1914 few authors wrote about or experienced war War especially its reality was not the proper subject of literature while writers seldom served in the armed forces and were almost never in battle More than half this book deals with the First World War In successive chapters A D Harvey discusses what sort of people in what sort of physical and psychological conditions wrote about the war or painted it how they handled the challenge of describing their experiences with complete honesty what literary and artistic techniques they employed how other forms of creative talent were fostered by the war and how far memoirs of the war prepared the way for the next one The account given of the Second World War in the final section like the chapters on pre 1914 war literature provides far more than simply an introduction and conclusion to the central part of the book It is an important contribution to an understanding of how literature and art relate to the psychological and social structures of the communities within which they are produced This is the first book to relate to the literature and art of the First World War to the literature and art produced by the Second World War and by earlier wars A Muse of Fire is also the first serious attempt to examine the whole range of war poetry and war fiction in English in its relation to the work of German French Italian and to a lesser extent Russian Danish and Hungarian authors Before 1914 few authors wrote about or experienced war War especially its reality was not the proper subject of literature while writers seldom served in the armed forces and were almost never in battle More than half this book deals with the First World War In successive chapters A D Harvey discusses what sort of people in what sort of physical and psychological conditions wrote about the war or painted it how they handled the challenge of describing their experiences with complete honesty what literary and artistic techniques they employed how other forms of creative talent were fostered by the war and how far memoirs of the war prepared the way for the next one The account given of the Second World War in the final section like the chapters on pre 1914 war literature provides far more than simply an introduction and conclusion to the central part of the book It is an important contribution to an understanding of how literature and art relate to the psychological and social structures of the communities within which they are produced

The Military Novel Russell S. Spindler, 1964 The Sonarman's War H.G. Jones, 2014-01-10 This memoir is an intimate and sometimes irreverent account of one man's coming of age during World War II Born a North Carolina farmboy Jones served as a U S Navy sonarman aboard a wooden submarine chaser operating from Africa and Sicily during the Allied invasions at Anzio and Southern France He also served as sonarman and yeoman on two fleet mine sweepers in the Okinawa Formosa and China operations This memoir is drawn not only from memory but from the author s surviving diaries from the conflicts daily logs of the three ships upon which he served and the secret reports of military commanders and other official records Flying Colours C.S. faces execution unless he can escape and make a triumphant return to England Forced to surrender his ship HMS Sutherland after a long and bloody battle Captain Horatio Hornblower is held prisoner in a French fortress Prospects turn bleaker when he learns that he and Lt Bush are to be tried and executed in Paris as part of Napoleon s attempts to rally the war weary Empire Even if Hornblower can escape this fate and make it safe to England he still faces court martial for surrendering his ship With little hope for the future and little left to lose Hornblower throws caution to the wind once more This is the seventh of eleven books chronicling the adventures of C S Forester s inimitable nautical hero Horatio Hornblower
