Stein, 2015-10-27 From 1850 to 1854 the ambitious Commander Robert McClure captained the HMS Investigator on a voyage in search of the missing Franklin Expedition which sailed from England into the Arctic in 1845 to map the last uncharted section of the North West Passage The Investigator and her consort the Enterprise were to pass through the Bering Strait from the west but a Pacific storm separated them never to meet again Obsessed with traversing the passage McClure pressed on and HMS Investigator spent three years trapped in pack ice in Mercy Bay before the crew abandoned ship on foot This book chronicles the voyage in detail McClure and his relationships with his officers are at the heart of the story of the arduous journey vividly illustrated by the paintings of Lt Samuel Cresswell Unravelling the Franklin Mystery David C. Woodman, 1992-06 David Woodman s reconstruction of the mysterious events surrounding the disappearance of two British exploration vessels in 1845 under the command of Sir John Franklin challenges standard interpretations and promises to replace them Among the many who have tried to discover the truth behind the Franklin disaster Woodman recognizes the profound importance of the Inuit testimony and analyzes it in depth He concludes from his investigations that the Inuit probably did visit Franklin's ships while the crew was still on board and that there were some Inuit who actually saw the sinking of one of the ships He maintains that fewer than ten bodies were found at Starvation Cove and that the last survivors left the cove in 1851 three years after the standard account assumes them to be dead Woodman also disputes the conclusion of Owen Beattie and John Geiger's book Frozen in Time that lead poisoning was a major contributing cause of the disaster

Hunters at the Margin John Sandlos, 2011-11-01 Hunters at the Margin examines the conflict in the Northwest Territories between Native hunters and conservationists over three big game species the wood bison the muskox and the caribou John Sandlos argues that the introduction of game regulations national parks and game sanctuaries was central to the assertion of state authority over the traditional hunting cultures of the Dene and Inuit His archival research undermines the assumption that conservationists were motivated solely by enlightened preservationism revealing instead that commercial interests were integral to wildlife management in Canada Arctic, 1964 Cairns David B.
