Tolkien's Transformative Women: Art in Triptych Annie Brust, 2024-04-02 J R R Tolkien has been revered as the father of twentieth century fantasy however many initially criticized him for his handling of the textual matter as male centric magical lands that did not feature prominent female roles or significant female characters This book will highlight the vast community of powerful female figures that Tolkien created in his fantasy writing stemming from the distinct and dominant female forces he created in his academic translation and poetry These fierce women serve as a culmination of the powerful forces of women and female character that originated in Medieval Norse and Celtic traditions They help to create the framework from which Tolkien shaped his female community not merely as singular figures as previously featured but as a dynamic network of figures who shape Tolkien's creative art For the first time this discussion looks at the entire community of women featuring previously excluded figures from his academic works and highlighting translation bias in modern manuscripts of the extant medieval works that influenced these women It also seeks to create a comprehensive guide and detailed appendices exploring the female characters and influences throughout his writing portfolio This book seeks to uncover the hidden voices of the past to find their rightful home in the strong female voices of the present rewriting history

Bad Medievalism and the Modernity Problem Kathy Lavezzo, 2025-11-04 Challenges the assumptions made over the medieval modern divide by examining the medieval roots of modern racism Humanists have long insisted on a chasm separating modernity and the Middle Ages In Bad Medievalism and the Modernity Problem Kathy Lavezzo demonstrates how the temporal divide scholars typically accept is a fiction that has shaped racial discourse over a

 James W Menzies, 2015-02-26 True Myth examines the meaning and significance of myth as understood by C S Lewis and Joseph Campbell and its place in the Christian faith in a technological society C S Lewis defined Christianity and being truly human as a relationship between the personal Creator and his creation mediated through faith in his son Jesus The influential writer and mythologist Joseph Campbell had a different perspective understanding Christianity as composed of mythical themes similar to those in other religious and secular myths While accepting certain portions of the biblical record as historical Campbell taught the theological and miraculous aspects as symbolic as stories in which the reader discovers what it means to be human today In contrast Lewis presented the theological and the miraculous in a literal way Although Lewis understood how one could see symbolism and lessons for life in miraculous events he believed they were more than symbolic and indeed took place in human history In True Myth James W Menzies skilfully balances the two writers differing approaches to guide the reader through a complex interaction of myth with philosophy media ethics history literature art
