D. Morrison, Hamish Nichol, Linda

Rammage, 2013-11-11 There has been a tremendous growth of interest in the human voice and its disorders during the past decade This has led to the development of a variety of voice labs or voice clinics that are able to offer unique interdisciplinary assessment and treatment facilities To cover all the bases the voice care team requires input from laryngology speech language pathology psychiatry neurology voice science music pedagogy biomedical engineering and other peripheral fields

Because of the multidisciplinary nature of voice clinics there have been a number of books written that address our subject from different professional perspectives. These tend to be multi-authored works that draw on expertise from around the world such as a laryngologist from New York, a speech pathologist from Toronto etc. All are colleagues that share similar interests but never actually share the management problems of the same patients. This book has been planned and written by the members of a single voice clinic. It is our hope that it will reflect a singleness of direction and purpose in the way it presents our approach to a complex topic. Because of our regular interactive meetings over problem patients in which we debate the meaning of our observations, the evolution of etiological classification systems and the rationale for particular therapy approaches we feel that we have become a team that is greater than the sum of its parts and that there is value in sharing our cumulative thoughts with others. This is not simply a laryngology text for laryngologists.
