Alcohol: No Ordinary Commodity Professor Department of Public Health Sciences Thomas F Babor, Thomas F. Babor, Professor Shore & Whariki Research Centre College of Health Sally Casswell, Sally Casswell, Kathryn Graham, Scientist Emeritus Institute for Mental Health Policy Research Kathryn Graham, Senior Researcher Shore and Whariki Research Centre College of Health Taisia Huckle, Associate Professor National Drug Research Institute Michael Livingston, Esa Österberg, Jürgen Rehm, Distinguished Professor Centre for Alcohol Policy Research Robin Room, Research Professor Department of Alcohol Tobacco and Drugs Ingeborg Rossow, 2023-02-28 Alcohol No Ordinary Commodity is a collaborative effort by an international group of addiction scientists to improve the linkages between addiction science and alcohol policy. It presents in a comprehensive practical and readily accessible form the accumulated scientific knowledge on alcohol research that has a direct relevance to the development of alcohol policy on local national and international levels. It provides an objective basis on which to build relevant policies globally and informs policy makers who have direct responsibility for public health and social welfare. By locating alcohol policy primarily within the realm of public health, this book draws attention to the growing tendency for governments both national and local to consider alcohol misuse as a major determinant of ill health and to organize societal responses accordingly. The scope of the book is comprehensive and global. The authors describe the conceptual basis for a rational alcohol policy and present new epidemiological data on the global dimensions of alcohol misuse. The core of the book is a critical review of the cumulative scientific evidence in seven general areas of alcohol policy: pricing and taxation; regulating the physical availability of alcohol; modifying the environment in which drinking occurs; drinking driving countermeasures; marketing restrictions; primary prevention programs in schools and other settings; and treatment and early intervention services. The final chapters discuss the current state of alcohol policy in different parts of the world and describe the need for a new approach to alcohol policy that is evidence based, global and coordinated. A valuable resource for those involved in addiction science and drug policy as well as those in the wider fields of public health, health policy, epidemiology and practising clinicians.

Alcohol, 2010. From a public health perspective, alcohol is a major contributor to morbidity and mortality and impacts on many aspects of social life. This text describes advances in alcohol research with direct relevance to the development of effective policies at local, national and international level.

Alcohol: No Ordinary Commodity Thomas F. Babor, 2010-02-25 Alcohol No Ordinary Commodity Research and Public Policy Second Edition is a collaborative effort by an international group of addiction scientists to improve the linkages between addiction science and alcohol policy. It presents in a comprehensive practical and readily accessible form the accumulated scientific knowledge on alcohol research that has a direct relevance to the development of alcohol policy on local national and international levels. It provides an objective analytical basis on which to build relevant policies globally and informs policy makers who have direct responsibility for public health and social welfare. By locating alcohol policy primarily within the realm of public health this book draws attention to the growing tendency for governments both national and local to consider alcohol misuse as a major determinant of ill health and to organize societal responses accordingly The scope of the book is comprehensive and international The authors describe the conceptual basis for a rational alcohol policy and present new epidemiological data on the global dimensions of alcohol misuse The core of the book is a critical review of the cumulative scientific evidence in seven general areas of alcohol policy pricing and taxation regulating the physical availability of alcohol modifying the environment in which drinking occurs drinking driving countermeasures marketing restrictions primary prevention programs in schools and other settings and treatment and early intervention services The final chapters discuss the current state of alcohol policy in different parts of the world and describe the need for a new approach to alcohol policy that is evidence based realistic and coordinated It will appeal to those involved in both addiction science and drug policy as well as those in the wider fields of public health health policy epidemiology and practising clinicians A companion volume published by Oxford University Press Drug Policy and the Public Good is also available Alcohol and Public Policy Thom Brooks,2016-03-17 Alcohol and its consumption is a major topic for public policy making Growing awareness of alcohol related health problems among the general public has led to high levels of interest in alcohol consumption and its impact on society This innovative collection of new perspectives on this critically important issue is informed by a leading group of international social scientists Topics covered include alcoholism the family minimum pricing paternalistic controls and Socially Responsible Investment programs Together these essays reveal illuminating new insights into how public policy might be improved This book was originally published as a special issue of Contemporary Social Science Alcohol at Work Clive Tobutt,2016-03-23 In the European Union many individuals will partake in drinking a little wine with their lunch or dinner to aid their enjoyment of the meal or as an appetizer for food Alcohol is also a drug of dependence Some individuals will drink too much and some of them will become addicted Access to alcohol binge drinking and younger drinkers can lead to unsafe workplaces absenteeism fraud and criminal behaviour Alcohol at Work is a definitive guide to the problem exploring its nature and scale and providing a complete range of ideas and techniques to help create a policy in the workplace and develop appropriate and effective measures for monitoring and tackling alcohol abuse The key collective message is solve the problem take the alcohol not the person out of the workplace In the UK alone research puts the cost of alcohol abuse in the workplace at 2 billion a year This is a must have reference for human resource occupational health and risk managers as well as those involved in tackling criminal behaviour such as fraud and violence at work resulting from alcohol abuse and addiction Alcohol, Power and Public Health Shane Butler,Karen Elmeland,Betsy Thom,James Nicholls,2017-03-16 In recent years the reduction of alcohol related harm has emerged as a major policy issue across Europe Public health advocates supported by the World Health Organisation have challenged an approach that targets problem drinking individuals calling instead for governments to control consumption across whole populations through a combination of pricing strategies restrictions on retail availability and marketing regulations Alcohol Power and Public Health explores the emergence of the public health perspective on alcohol policy in Europe the strategies alcohol control policy advocates have adopted and the challenges they have faced in the political context of both individual states and the European Union The book provides a historical perspective on the development of alcohol policy in Europe using four case studies Denmark England Scotland and Ireland It explores the relationship between evidence values and power in a key area of political decision making and considers what conditions create or prevent policy change The case studies raise questions as to who sets policy agendas how social problems are framed and defined and how governments can balance public health promotion against both commercial interests and established cultural practices This book will be of interest to academics and researchers in policy studies public health social science and European Union studies

Contemporary Issues in Health and Social Care Policy and Practice Julia Morgan, Vincent La Placa, 2025-02-07 This accessible text presents a comparative analysis of health and social care policy and practice from around the world with learning points drawn out for the UK It supports readers to improve practice by reflecting on differences and similarities in the policies of other OECD countries Divided into two parts the book opens with a focus on core concepts in health and social care policy and practice such as service user involvement the promotion of wellbeing health inequalities funding and integrated care The differing philosophical socio political and historical perspectives that underpin these key areas in different countries are explored in order to develop a greater understanding of the UK system The second part of the book takes a close look at a range of specific contemporary issues such as end of life care long term conditions homelessness refugee and migrant health disability domestic abuse substance use and women in prison These in depth case study chapters enable readers to identify best practices and challenges in relation to specific areas of health and social care policy and practice Ideal for undergraduate students studying health and social care policy from a range of disciplinary backgrounds this practical text provides a deeper understanding of complex health and social care issues and supports the development of a global and comparative skill set report is based on data collected by WHO from Member States and organized in accordance with the Sustainable Development Goals health target 3.5 which calls on countries to strengthen the prevention and treatment of substance abuse including narcotic drug abuse and harmful use of alcohol. The chapter on alcohol and health continues the series of WHO global status reports on alcohol and health and presents the latest available data on the status of and trends in alcohol consumption as well as estimates of the alcohol attributable disease burden and descriptions of policy responses worldwide. On the basis of data collected from countries on the treatment of substance use disorders, the report describes the status of key components of treatment responses to alcohol and drug use disorders and proposes a new service capacity index for these disorders as an additional contextual indicator for monitoring progress in this domain of SDG health target 3.5. The report concludes with broad directions for international action to accelerate progress towards achievement of SDG health target 3.5.

Assemblages of Health Cameron Duff, 2014-05-13 This book presents a review of Deleuze's key methods and concepts in the course of exploring how these methods may be applied in contemporary studies of health and illness. Taken from a Deleuzian perspective, health and wellbeing will be characterized as a discontinuous process of affective and relational transitions. The book argues that health conceived in terms of the quality of life is advanced or facilitated in the provision of new affective sensitivities and new relational capacities. Following an assessment of Deleuze's key ideas, the book will offer a series of case studies designed to illustrate how Deleuze's ideas can be applied to select health problems. This analysis draws out the specific advantages of a Deleuzian approach to public health research, establishing grounds for more widespread engagement with Deleuze's ideas across the health and social sciences.

Violence Prevention in Low- and Middle-Income Countries Institute of Medicine, Board on Global Health, 2008-02-22 The current state of science in violence prevention reveals progress, promise, and a number of remaining challenges. In order to fully examine the issue of global violence prevention, the Institute of Medicine in collaboration with Global Violence Prevention Advocacy convened a workshop and released the workshop summary entitled Violence Prevention in Low and Middle Income Countries. The workshop brought together participants with a wide array of expertise in fields related to health, criminal justice, public policy, and economic development to study and articulate specific opportunities for the U.S. government and other leaders with resources to more effectively support programming for prevention of the many types of violence. Participants highlighted the need for the timely development of an integrated, science-based approach and agenda to support research, clinical practice, program development, policy analysis, and advocacy for violence prevention.
