Sherlock Holmes: Charles Augustus Milverton Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Mr Holmes Mr Holmes he said turning the front of his coat and exhibiting the butt of a large revolver which projected from the inside pocket I have been expecting you to do something original This has been done so often and what good has ever come from it I assure you that I am armed to the teeth and I am perfectly prepared to use my weapons knowing that the law will support me Besides your supposition that I would bring the letters here in a note book is entirely mistaken I would do nothing so foolish And now gentlemen I have one or two little interviews this evening and it is a long drive to Hampstead He stepped forward took up his coat laid his hand on his revolver and turned to the door I picked up a chair but Holmes shook his head and I laid it down again With bow a smile and a twinkle Milverton was out of the room and a few moments after we heard the slam of the carriage door and the rattle of the wheels as he drove away Holmes sat motionless by the fire his hands buried deep in his trouser pockets his chin sunk upon his breast his eyes fixed upon the glowing embers For half an hour he was silent and still Then with the gesture of a man who has taken his decision he sprang to his feet and passed into his bedroom A little later a rakish young workman with a goatee beard and a swagger lit his clay pipe at the lamp before descending into the street I ll be back some time Watson said he and vanished into the night I understood that he had opened his campaign against Charles Augustus Milverton but I little dreamed the strange shape which that campaign was destined to take For some days Holmes came and went at all hours in this attire but beyond a remark that his time was spent at Hampstead and that it was not wasted I knew nothing of what he was doing At last however on a wild tempestuous evening when the wind screamed and rattled against the windows he returned from his last expedition and having removed his disguise he sat before the fire and laughed heartily in his silent inward fashion
