Water Reuse Chris Binnie, Martin Kimber, 2008-05-14 Water Reuse An International Survey of current practice issues and needs examines water reuse practices around the world from different perspectives The objective is to show how differently wastewater reuse is conceived and practised around the world as well as to present the varied needs and possibilities for reusing wastewater In the first section water reuse practices around the world are described for regions having common water availability reuse needs and social aspects The second section refers to the stakeholders point of view Each reuse purpose demands different water quality not only to protect health and the environment but also to fulfil the requirements of the specific reuse Reuses considered are agricultural urban agriculture as a special case of the former municipal and industrial Alongside these uses the indirect reuse for human consumption through aquifer recharge is also discussed The third section deals with emerging and controversial topics Ethical and economical dilemmas in the field are presented as a subject not frequently addressed in this field The role of governments in respect of public policy in reuse is discussed as well as the different international criteria and standards for reusing wastewater The importance of public acceptance and the way to properly handle it is also considered The fourth section of the book presents contrasting case studies typical situations in the developed world Japan and Germany are compared to those in developing countries Pakistan and Brazil for agricultural and industrial reuse Indirect planned reuse for human consumption Germany is compared with an unplanned one Mexico The Windhoek Namibia case study is presented to emphasize why if the direct reuse of wastewater for human consumption has been performed with success for more than 35 years it is still the only example of this type around the world To illustrate the difficulties of having a common framework for regulating water reuse in several countries the Mediterranean situation is described Other case studies presented refer to the reuse situation in Israel Spain Cameroon Nepal and Vietnam these latter countries being located in water rich areas This book will be an invaluable information source for all those concerned with water reuse including water utility managers wastewater policy makers and water resources planners as well as researchers and students in environmental engineering water resources planning and sanitary engineering Scientific and Technical Report No 20 Atlantic Canada Standards and Guidelines Manual for the Collection, Treatment, and Disposal of Sanitary Sewage, 1996 Efficient Redundancy Design Practices T. M. Palmer, 2003-02-01 The design of wastewater treatment plants with redundancy to assure a quality end product may be in conflict with efforts to assure effectiveness Redundancy of major system components is to assure compliance with regulations and protection of the environment and the health and safety of the public and treatment plant staff. However, the capital costs and maintenance associated with redundant equipment does not necessarily enhance facility performance. There are a number of forces driving the level of redundancy in plant designs. Federal and state compliance regulations and the design engineer's past experiences will influence the plant design. To some extent, the plant staff may also provide input into the plant design and therefore contributes to the redundancy. This report determines alternative methods to address treatment plant redundancy, including examples of methods currently in place and ideally insight on the premises leading to these applications. A secondary objective is to identify the similarities and differences in redundancy requirements associated with federal and state regulatory agencies. Wastewater Sludge Ludovico Spinosa, 2011-05-05. Following a successful first edition published in 2007, the follow-up 2011 edition of Wastewater Sludge: A Global Overview of the Current Status and Future Prospects will present an updated and expanded perspective on developments in relation to wastewater sludge around the world. Sludge arising from wastewater treatment represents a serious environmental issue requiring technological and management solutions to ensure it is processed in a safe and economically efficient manner. Extension of sewers, the construction of new wastewater treatment facilities, and the upgrading of existing wastewater plants means the amount of sludge to be handled continues to increase. Alongside these aspects relating to energy consumption and sustainable operation need to be considered. Within this general picture, sludge is generated in different technical, economic, and social contexts around the world, demanding that different approaches need to be taken. The 2011 edition of this report provides a strategic overview of the wastewater sludge market around the world based on regional and country contributions. These look at the current situation in terms of sludge generation, legislation, technology applied, and management approaches. These will then look at anticipated developments over the short/medium term, including expected developments in terms of legislation and the technology and management solutions to be implemented. These will be complemented by longer-term perspectives also. The report has been prepared for the Market Briefing Series of the International Water Association's magazine Water21 with input from IWA's network of wastewater sludge experts around the world. Contributions in the 2011 edition include: Western Europe (Portugal, Italy, Belgium), Eastern Europe, Turkey, USA, Canada, Latin America, Caribbean, Colombia, Brazil, East Asia, Korea, Malaysia, South Asia, China, Africa, and Australasia.
