Baker Mona 1992 In Other Words A Coursebook On Translation:

In Other Words Mona Baker, 2011-01-25 In Other Words is the definitive coursebook for anyone studying translation. Assuming no knowledge of foreign languages, it offers both a practical and theoretical guide to translation studies and provides an important foundation for training professional translators. Drawing on modern linguistic theory, this best-selling text provides a solid base to inform and guide the many key decisions trainee translators have to make. Each chapter offers an explanation of key concepts, identifies potential sources of translation difficulties related to those concepts, and illustrates various strategies for resolving these difficulties. Authentic examples of translated texts from a wide variety of languages are examined, and practical exercises and further reading are included at the end of each chapter. The second edition has been fully revised to reflect recent developments in the field, and new features include a new chapter that addresses issues of ethics and ideology in response to increased pressures on translators and interpreters to demonstrate accountability and awareness of the social impact of their decisions. Examples and exercises from new genres such as audiovisual translation, scientific translation, oral interpreting, website translation, and news media translation. New project-driven exercises designed to support MA dissertation work. Updated references and further reading. A companion website featuring further examples and tasks. Written by Mona Baker, a leading international figure in the field, this key text is the essential coursebook for any student of translation studies.

More Paragraphs on Translation Peter Newmark, 1998 This text covers the field of translation applied to information, human relations, and literature. It is illustrated with examples and quotations. The content of the book covers the following subject areas: translation topics such as examining, assessing, capitalization, emphasis, idiolect, grecolatinisms across languages, the small print, eponyms, and howlers; translation theory; differences between good and bad translation; good and bad writing; literary and non-literary texts and translations; cultural and universal factors; translation as a matter of public interest in the European Union and national parliaments, as well as in museums and art galleries; and critical discussion of recently published books and conference proceedings.

For over 40 years he taught at Adam Mickiewicz University in Poznań where he established a stronghold of English studies in Europe. His efforts were appreciated with medals, awards, honorific titles, and mentoring positions amongst academic bodies. The present In Memoriam volume undoubtedly counts among the all-encompassing and much expected individual and collective acts of commemoration.

to recognize the authority of Professor Jacek Fisiak the great scientist the indefatigable Organizer Manager and Mentor relentless of any adversity or difficulty the person whose countless contributions and merits in the history of Polish humanities especially in the field of philological sciences and English studies in Poland cannot be overestimated On the one hand the articles included in the volume yield a multidimensional testimony of the authors scientific kinship with Professor Fisiak s broad scientific interests On the other they present a whole range of individual philological inquiries starting from texts whose synthetic theoretical overtones prove the rich experience of their authors through the articles of a more general nature to prolegomena stimulating further in depth scientific analyses from the review by prof Grzegorz Kleparski and in what areas are text types identical across languages and cultures What similarities and dissimilarities can be observed in text types of original and translated texts Part I deals with methodological aspects and offers a typology of translations both as product and as process Part II is devoted to domain specific texts in a cross cultural perspective while Part III is concerned with terminology and lexicon as well as the constraints of mode and medium involving dubbing and subtitling as translation methods Sonnets sagas fairy tales novels and feature films sermons political speeches international treaties instruction leaflets business letters academic lectures academic articles medical research articles technical brochures and legal documents are but some of the texts under investigation In sum this volume provides a theoretical overview of major problems and possibilities as well as investigations into a variety of text types with practical suggestions that deserve to be weighted by anyone considering the relation between text typology and translation The volume is indispensable for the translator in his/her efforts to become a competent text aware professional

Corpora in Interpreting Studies Andrew K.F. Cheung, Kanglong Liu, Riccardo Moratto, 2023-12-01 Cheung Liu Moratto and their contributors examine how corpora can be effectively harnessed to benefit interpreting practice and research in East Asian settings In comparison to the achievements made in the field of corpus based translation studies the use of corpora in interpreting is not comparable in terms of scope methods and agenda One of the predicaments that hampers this line of inquiry is the lack of systematic corpora to document spoken language This issue is even more pronounced when dealing with East Asian languages such as Chinese Japanese and Korean which are typologically different from European languages As language plays a pivotal role in interpreting research the use of corpora in interpreting within East Asian contexts has its own distinct characteristics as well as methodological constraints and concerns However it also generates new insights and findings that can significantly advance this research field A valuable resource for scholars of scholars focusing on corpus interpreting particularly those dealing with East Asian languages

Deconstruction and Translation Kathleen Davis, 2014-07-22 Deconstruction and Translation explains ways in which many practical and theoretical problems of translation can be rethought in the light of insights from the French philosopher Jacques Derrida If there is no one origin no transcendent meaning and thus no stable source text we can no longer talk of translation as meaning transfer or as passive reproduction Kathleen Davis instead refers to the translator's freedom and individual responsibility Her survey of this complex field begins from an analysis of the proper name as a model for the problem of signification and explains revised concepts of limits singularity generality definitions of text writing iterability meaning and intention The implications for translation theory are then elaborated complicating the desire for translatability and incorporating sharp critique of linguistic and communicative approaches to translation The practical import of this approach is shown in analyses of the ways Derrida has been translated into English In all the text offers orientation and guidance through some of the most conceptually demanding and rewarding fields of contemporary translation theory

of feminism in China through examining several Chinese translations of two typical feminist works The Second Sex TSS Beauvoir 1949 1952 and The Vagina Monologues TVM Ensler 1998 TSS exposes the cultural construction of woman while TVM reveals the pervasiveness of sexual oppression toward women The female body and female sexuality including lesbian sexuality constitute a challenge to the Chinese translators due to cultural differences and sexuality still being a sensitive topic in China This book investigates from gender and feminist perspectives how TSS and TVM have been translated and received in China with special attention to how the translators meet the challenges Since translation is the gateway to the reception of feminism an examination of the translations should reveal the response to feminism of the translator as the first reader and gatekeeper and how feminism is translated both ideologically and technically in China The translators decisions are discussed within the social historical and political contexts Translating Feminism in China discusses among other issues Feminist Translation Practice Theory and Studies Translating the Female Body and Sexuality Translating Lesbianism Censorship Sexuality and Translation This book will be relevant to postgraduate students and researchers of translation studies It will also interest academics interested in feminism gender studies and Chinese literature and culture Zhongli Yu is Assistant Professor of Translation Studies at the University of Nottingham Ningbo China UNNC

Translation and Localisation in Video Games Miguel Á. Bernal-Merino, 2014-09-19 This book is a multidisciplinary study of the translation and localisation of video games It offers a descriptive analysis of the industry understood as a global phenomenon in entertainment and aims to explain the norms governing present industry practices as well as game localisation processes Additionally it discusses particular translation issues that are unique to the multichannel nature of video games in which verbal and nonverbal signs must be cohesively combined with interactivity to achieve maximum playability and immerse players in the game's virtual world Although positioned within the theoretical framework of descriptive translation studies Bernal Merino incorporates research from audiovisual translation software localisation computer assisted translation comparative literature and video game production Moving beyond this framework Translation and Localisation in Video Games challenges some of the basic tenets of translation studies and proposes changes to established and unsatisfactory processes in the video game and language services industries

Translation and Cross-Cultural Communication Studies in the Asia Pacific, 2015-06-24 Translation and interpreting T I and cross cultural communication activities in the Asia Pacific are unique in that they involve vastly different languages and cultures Such differences pose challenges for T I practitioners and researchers as well as scholars of cross cultural studies In Translation and Cross Cultural Communication Studies in the Asia Pacific Leong Ko and Ping Chen provide a comprehensive and in depth account of various issues encountered in translation and interpreting activities and cross cultural communication in the Asia Pacific The book covers six areas including translation research from the historical perspective and different issues in translation studies research on literary translation studies on translation for special purposes research on interpreting translation and interpreting training and research on issues in cross cultural communication      Becoming A Translator Douglas Robinson,2003-09-02 This innovative book integrates translation theory and the practical skills required by the working translator      Wordplay and Translation Dirk Delabastita,2016-04-29 Popular and multimodal forms of cultural products are becoming increasingly visible within translation studies research Interest in translation and music however has so far been relatively limited mainly because translation of musical material has been considered somewhat outside the limits of translation studies as traditionally conceived Difficulties associated with issues such as the musicality of lyrics the fuzzy boundaries between translation adaptation and rewriting and the pervasiveness of covert or unacknowledged translations of musical elements in a variety of settings have generally limited the research in this area to overt and canonized translations such as those done for the opera Yet the intersection of translation and music can be a fascinating field to explore and one which can enrich our understanding of what translation is and how it relates to other forms of expression This special issue is an attempt to open up the field of translation and music to a wider audience within translation studies and to an extent within musicology and cultural studies The volume includes contributions from a wide range of musical genres and languages from those that investigate translation and code switching in North African rap and rai and the intertextual and intersemiotic translations revolving around Mahler s lieder in Chinese to the appropriation and after life of Kurdish folk songs in Turkish and the emergence of rock n roll in Russian Other papers examine the reception of Anglo American stage musicals and musical films in Italy and Spain the concept of singability with examples from Scandinavian languages and the French dubbing of musical episodes of TV series The volume also offers an annotated bibliography on opera translation and a general bibliography on translation and music      Translating Humour Jeroen Vandaele,2016-04-08 It is all too often assumed that humour is the very effect of a text But humour is not a perlocutionary effect in its own right nor is laughter The humour of a text may be as general a characteristic as a serious text s seriousness Like serious texts humorous texts have many different purposes and effects They can be subdivided into specific subgenres with their own perlocutionary effects their own types of laughter or even other reactions Translation scholars need to be able to distinguish between various kinds of humour or humorous effect when comparing source and target texts especially since the notion of effect pops up so frequently in the evaluation of humorous texts and their translations In this special issue of The Translator an attempt is made to delineate types of humorous effect through careful linguistic and cultural analyses of specific examples and or the introduction of new analytical tools For a translator who is both a receiver of the source text and sender of the target text such analyses and tools may prove useful in grasping and pinning down the perlocutionary effect of a source text and devising strategies for producing comparable effects in the target text For a translation scholar who is a receiver of both source and target texts the contributions in this issue will hopefully provide an analytical framework for the comparison of source and target perlocutionary effects      Translating the Elusive Monika S. Schmid,1999-01-01 This work presents an in depth analysis of text and speaker based meaning of non canonical word order in English and ways to preserve this in English German translation Among the sentence structures under discussion are subject verb inversion Left Dislocation Topicalization as well as wh cleft and it cleft sentences Various approaches to the description and analysis of the meaning potential of these structures are presented and discussed among them theories of grammaticalization subjectivity empathy and information structure English as a rigid word order language has quite different means of creating meaning by syntactic variation than a free word order language like German Contrastive analyses of English and German have emphasized structural differences due to the fact that English uses word order to encode the assignment of grammatical roles while in German this is achieved mainly by morphological means For most marked constructions in English a corresponding structure preserving translation does not lead to an ungrammatical or unacceptable German sentence The temptation for the translator to preserve these structures is therefore great A case study discusses more than 200 example sentences drawn from recent works of US American fiction and offers possible strategies for their translation

Writing a Translation Commentary Penélope Johnson, 2023-12-05 This essential textbook is a step by step guide to how to write a self reflective translation commentary a key requirement of most courses on translation Starting with source text analysis it guides students in how to set out a translation strategy and goes through the most common challenging issues encountered thus enabling students to set out their translation priorities in an informed manner Throughout each chapter there are boxes summarising key concepts and suggestions of tasks and activities as well as recommendations for further reading The book is supplemented by online resources for students and teachers on the translation studies portal There are nine PowerPoints based on the chapters of the book that could be used for teaching or self study There are also downloadable versions of sample assessment rubrics tables for example selection and checklists Based on real life examples of students work in different language combinations drawing on the author s years of experience of teaching commentary writing this book focuses on several types of language mediation that go beyond the written word such as interpreting audiovisual translation localisation and transcreation This is a vital textbook for students writing commentaries on translation and interpreting courses a useful resource for supervisors providing students with guidance on how to write a balanced articulate and convincing commentary and a handy reference for professional translators and interpreters needing to explain their translation decisions to clients

Key Debates in the Translation of Advertising Material Beverly Adab, Cristina Valdes, 2016-04-01 Much has been written about the marketing aspects of promotional material in general and several scholars particularly in linguistics have addressed questions relating to the structure and function of advertisements focusing on images rhetorical structure semiotic functions discourse features and audio visual media amongst other aspects of the genre Not much on the other hand has been written within translation studies about the complexities involved in the transfer of an advertising message Contributors to this volume explore various interdependent aspects of the interlingual and intercultural transfer of an advertising message They emphasize features of culture specificity of multi medial semiotic interaction of values and stereotypes and most importantly they recommend strategies and approaches to assist translators Topics covered include a critique of the Western based approach to advertising in the context of the Far East different perceptions of the concept of cleanliness in advertising texts in Italy Russia and the UK the Walls Cornetto strategy of internationalization of product appeal followed by localization the role of the translator in recreating appeal in different lingua cultural contexts what constitutes Italianness in advertisements for British consumers and strategies for repackaging France as a tourist destination

Translation Revisited Mamadou Diawara, Elísio S. Macamo, Jean-Bernard Ouédraogo, 2019-01-17 How realistic is it to expect translation to render the world intelligible in a context shaped by different historical trajectories and experiences Can we rely on human universals to translate through the unique and specific webs of meaning that languages represent If knowledge production is a kind of translation then it is fair to assume that the possibility of translation has largely rested on the idea that Western experience is the repository of these human universals against the background of which different human experiences can be rendered intelligible The problem with this assumption however is that there are limits to Western claims to universalism mainly because these claims were at the service of the desire to justify imperial expansion This book addresses issues arising from these claims to universalism in the process of producing knowledge about diverse African social realities It shows that the idea of knowledge production as translation can be usefully deployed to inquire into how knowledge of Africa translates into an imperial attempt at changing local norms institutions and spiritual values Translation in this sense is the normalization of meanings issuing from a local historical experience claiming to be universal The task of producing knowledge of African social realities cannot be adequately addressed without a prior critical engagement with how translation has come to shape our ways of rendering Africa intelligible

Translation Practices, 2009-01-01 This cutting edge collection born of a belief in the value of approaching translation in a wide range of ways contains essays of interest to students and scholars of translation literary and textual studies It provides insights into the relations between translation and comparative literature contrastive linguistics cultural studies painting and other media Subjects and authors discussed include the translator as go between the textual editor as translator Ghirri's photography and Celati's fiction the European lending library La Bible d'Amiens the coining of Italian phraseological units Michèle Roberts's Impossible Saints the impact of modern translations for stage on perceptions of ancient Greek drama and the translation of slang intensifiers characterisation desire the self and America in 1990s Italian fiction The collection closes with David Platzer's discussion of translating Dacia Maraini's poetry into English and with his new translations of Ho Sognato una Stazione I Dreamed of a Station and Le Tue Bugie Your Lies

Memes of Translation Andrew Chesterman, 1997-06-05 Memes of Translation is a search for coherence in translation theory based on the notion of Memes ideas that spread develop and replicate like genes The author explores a wide range of ideas on translation mapping the meme pool of translation theory with chapters on translation history norms strategies assessment ethics and translator training The aim of the book is to search for a perspective from which the immense variety of ideas about translation can be related The unifying thread is the philosophy of Karl Popper The book proposes the beginnings of a Popperian theory of translation based on the fundamental concepts of norms strategies and values A key idea is that a translation itself is a theory or hypothesis concerning the source text This hypothesis is then subjected to testing refinement and perhaps even rejection just like any other hypothesis      Theoretical Perspectives on Terminology Pamela Faber, Marie-Claude L'Homme, 2022-06-15 The aim of this volume is to provide an overview of different theoretical perspectives on Terminology from W ster to other initiatives that have emerged since the beginning of the 1990s The volume also covers important topics which have significantly influenced Terminology and its evolution These include variation multidimensionality conceptual relations and equivalence among others The twenty two chapters of the volume all written by acknowledged experts in the field explore the questions that different approaches seek to answer They also describe the theoretical and methodological principles that were devised over the years to characterize analyze and represent terminological data The semi chronological semi thematic organization of chapters not only provides readers with a clear vision of the evolution of ideas in Terminology but also gives them an understanding as to why some of these ideas were initially challenged In addition to being accessible to readers unfamiliar with the basic theoretical principles in the field the chapters provide a showcase of current research in the field the challenges looming on the horizon and finally future directions in terminological research By bringing together work that is often disseminated in different forums and written in different languages this volume provides a unique opportunity to look at how different theoretical approaches to Terminology offer complementary perspectives on terms concepts and specialized knowledge and help to further a better understanding of the complex phenomena that terminologists must successfully deal with in their work      Person Reference and Gender in Translation Marion Kremer, 1997
