Baptists and Worship R. Scott Connell,2020-11-30 Worship is dialogue It is more than that but it is not less than that The way Baptists have worshiped for three and a half centuries demonstrates this consistently in spite of their penchant for freedom and autonomy No one tells Baptists how to order their worship services They don't have a common liturgy that they must follow and yet their services look remarkably similar This is largely due to two controlling factors in their worship The Bible that they embrace as inspired inerrant authoritative and sufficient and the Christ revealing gospel that is contained within its pages When the word of God is followed closely a shape for worship order begins to emerge It is the same gospel shape that is found throughout the Bible When the word of God is applied to a worship service in which God and his people are engaged in a worship conversation a consistent contour of gospel elements and content begins to emerge that reveals the glory of the Christ we gather to worship He is so glorious that when we behold him we are transformed into the same image from one degree to another This is the power of corporate worship 2 Cor 3

As public funding for social services has been slashed there has arisen an unprecedented interest in the potential and dangers of faith based institutions as agents of social change This text seeks to answer pressing questions surrounding this important and controversial issue Traditional Worship in Russian-speaking Churches Leonid Mikhovich,2025-02-28

There is an acute lack of a theology of worship in Baptist Russian speaking contexts with the ramifications of the Tsarist and later Soviet persecution limiting its development even to this day While there is now opportunity to do so developing a theology of worship in the local context is imperative Filling this gap Dr Leonid Mikhovich considers the historical religious and political contexts that have influenced Russian speaking worship Drawing examples from the Baptist movement in Belarus Dr Mikhovich analyzes its various influences and explores conflict arising between local and foreign traditions within the process of adopting some Western structures for the Eastern situation The results prompt reflection on the different expressions of worship and the underlying convictions present in respective cultural contexts while also offering counsel for dealing with tensions between liturgical practices and authoritative voices in the Baptist tradition As the first of its kind worship and church history scholars will find this comprehensive study into traditional Russian speaking worship invaluable for understanding its historical theological and cultural perspectives and essential for mapping its future Administering

The Living Church ,1967 The Social Gospel in Black and White Ralph E. Luker,2000-11-09 In a major revision of accepted wisdom this book originally published by UNC Press in 1991 demonstrates that American social Christianity played an important role in racial reform during the period between Emancipation and the civil rights movement As organizations created by the heirs of antislavery sentiment foundered in the mid 1890s Ralph Luker argues a new generation of black and white reformers many of them representatives of American social Christianity explored a variety of solutions to the problem of racial conflict Some of them helped to organize the Federal Council of Churches in 1909 while others returned to abolitionist and home missionary strategies in organizing the NAACP in 1910 and the National Urban League in 1911 A half century later such organizations formed the institutional core of America's civil rights movement Luker also shows that the black prophets of social Christianity who espoused theological personalism created an influential tradition that eventually produced Martin Luther King Jr Mahalia Jackson and the Black Gospel Field Mark Burford,2019 Drawing on and piecing of this demonstration project was the provision of adequate well balanced and medically appropriate meals for the homebound aged The major objectives of the project were to assess and document the feasibility of various systems of food preparation packaging and delivery as a vehicle for meeting the nutritional needs of the homebound aged in the city of St Petersburg Florida Recipients received one home delivered meal each weekday To implement the program criteria for acceptance were adopted based on psychological physiological or sociological need age and geographic restrictions A system of screening prospective clients in their own homes was adopted Among the components evaluated were various packaging systems on site preparation of special diets and meal delivery systems utilizing both project staff and volunteers Project assessment was both objective cost per meal temperature obtained hours of labor required etc and subjective reported benefit perceived ease of administration etc Findings indicated that certain packaging systems were more adaptable than others for home delivered meals Special diets prepared on site were found to be unfeasible A volunteer delivery system proved to be more efficient and effective and significantly less costly than a system utilizing project vehicles and staff Guidelines based on project experience were developed The results of this demonstration should be of assistance to social service workers public health officials nurses physicians hospitals and others who are interested in developing nutrition
