Naval Warfare and Maritime Conflict in the Late Bronze and Early Iron Age Mediterranean Jeffrey P. Emanuel, 2020-11-04 In Naval Warfare and Maritime Conflict in the Late Bronze and Early Iron Age Mediterranean Jeffrey P Emanuel examines the evidence for maritime violence in the Mediterranean region during both the Late Bronze Age and the tumultuous transition to the Early Iron Age in the years surrounding the turn of the 12th century BCE There has traditionally been little differentiation between the methods of armed conflict engaged in during the Late Bronze and Early Iron Ages on both the coasts and the open seas while polities have been alternately characterized as legitimate martial actors and as state sponsors of piracy By utilizing material documentary and iconographic evidence and delineating between the many forms of armed conflict Emanuel provides an up to date assessment not only of the nature and frequency of warfare raiding piracy and other forms of maritime conflict in the Late Bronze Age and Late Bronze Early Iron Age transition but also of the extent to which modern views about this activity remain the product of inference and speculation

Material Koinai in the Greek Early Iron Age and Archaic Period Anastasia Gadolou, Soren Handberg, 2017-02-01 The ancient Greek word koinē was used to describe the new common language dialect that became widespread in the ancient Greek world after the conquests of Alexander the Great Modern scholars have increasingly used the word to conceptualise regional homogeneities in the material culture of the ancient Mediterranean In this volume twenty scholars from various disciplines present case studies that focus on the fundamental question of how to perceive and the social and cultural mechanisms that led to the spread and consumption of material culture in the Greek early Iron Age Combined the chapters provide a critical examination of the use of the koine concept as a heuristic tool in historical research and discuss to what degree similarities in material culture reflect cultural connections The volume will be of interest scholars interested in archaeological theory and method the social significance of material culture and the history of the ancient Greek world in the first half of the first millennium BC

Between Deity and Dedicator Sanne Hoffmann,2023-07-04 The book presents a broad survey of Greek votive terracotta figurines a class of votives where previous scholarship has mainly consisted of research in specific sites and collections They have traditionally been interpreted as inexpensive and inconspicuous votives for everyday use but this study questions whether this is in fact the case By introducing the theoretical model of cha ne op ratoire for a life cycle study of the votive figurines the book moves through the stages of production distribution use and discard of the votives the latter both in the sense of practical discard and in the end of use The study is based on a selection of case studies and surveys of relevant material allowing for in depth analyses of the terracottas in those life stages of shifting contextual interactions The approach furthers new knowledge on several levels such as the value of the terracottas their suitability and their popularity as dedications their iconography and symbolism the general votive practice and the end of the terracotta practice As such the book is relevant for all who seek insights on terracotta figurines votive offerings ritual practice as well as those interested in archaeological methodology theory and contexts

Water in Ancient Mediterranean Households Rick Bonnie,Patrik Klingborg,2023-11-30 This book provides the first detailed study of the water supply of households in antiquity Chapters explore settings from Classical Greece to the Late Roman Empire across a wide variety of environments from dry deserts and moderate Mediterranean zones to wet and temperate climates further north The different case studies presented in each chapter are united by three intimately interconnected aspects The first rainwater harvesting in cisterns provides detailed techno hydraulic investigations of the household water supply systems The second aspect households and water at the margins stresses how domestic water supply systems were successfully adapted to unusually harsh environmental conditions The third other waters for houses focuses on other types of water supply systems rivers water bearers stepped pools wells and their life biographies As shown by the different chapters a careful study of a household s water supply is a rich source of evidence for understanding everyday decisions anxieties and changes in life They also build towards a greater understanding of the social inequalities that are at play in the ancient Mediterranean and beyond providing a wealth of new research to greatly augment our understanding of water as a resource in the ancient Mediterranean Providing a new and important perspective on a central part of everyday life in the ancient world this book is aimed at archaeologists and historians of the ancient Mediterranean notably the Greek and Roman worlds especially those with an interest in ancient households and water culture

Societies in Transition in Early Greece Alex R. Knodell, 2021-05-25 Situated at the disciplinary boundary between prehistory and history this book presents a new synthesis of Late Bronze Age and Early Iron Age Greece from the rise and fall of Mycenaean civilization to the emergence of city states in the Archaic period These centuries saw the growth and decline of varied political systems and the development of networks across local regional and Mediterranean scales As a groundbreaking study of landscape interaction and sociopolitical change Societies in Transition in Early Greece systematically bridges the divide between the Mycenaean period and the Archaic Greek world to shed new light on an often overlooked period of world history This book reconfigures our understanding of early Greece on a regional level beyond Mycenaean palaces and across temporal boundaries Alex Knodell s sophisticated arguments enable a fresh reading of the emergence of early Greek polities revealing the microregions that put to the test overarching Mediterranean models His detailed study makes a convincing return to a comparative framework integrating a small world network and its trajectory with the larger picture of ancient complex societies SARAH MORRIS Steinmetz Professor of Classical Archaeology and Material Culture University of California Los Angeles A comprehensive thoughtful treatment of the time period before the crystallization of the ancient Greek city states WILLIAM A PARKINSON Curator and Professor The Field Museum and University of Illinois at Chicago An important and must read account The strength of this book lies in its close analysis of the important different regional characteristics and evolutionary trajectories of Greece as it transforms into the Archaic and later the Classical world DAVID B SMALL author Ancient Greece Social Structure and Evolution

Collapse and Transformation Guy D. Middleton, 2020-04-09 The years c 1250 to 1150 BC in Greece and the Aegean are often characterised as a time of crisis and collapse A critical period in the long history of the region and its people and culture they witnessed the end of the Mycenaean kingdoms with their palaces and Linear B records and through the Postpalatial period the transition into the Early Iron Age But on closer examination it has become increasingly clear that the period as a whole across the region defies simple characterisation there was success and splendour resilience and continuity and novelty and innovation actively driven by the people of these lands through this transformative century The story of the Aegean at this time has frequently been incorporated into narratives focused on the wider eastern Mediterranean and most infamously the Sea Peoples of the Egyptian texts In twenty five chapters written by 25 specialists Collapse and Transformation instead offers a tight focus on the Aegean itself providing an up to date picture of the archaeology before and after the collapse of c 1200 BC It will be essential reading for students and scholars of the Aegean and eastern Mediterranean regions as well as providing data and a range of interpretations to those studying collapse and resilience more widely and engaging in comparative studies Introductory chapters discuss notions of collapse and provide overviews of the Minoan and Mycenaean collapses These are followed by twelve chapters which review the evidence from the major regions of the Aegean including the Argolid Messenia and Boeotia Crete and the Aegean islands Six chapters then address key themes the economy funerary practices the Mycenaean pottery of the mainland and the wider Aegean and eastern Mediterranean region religion and the extent to which later Greek myth can be drawn upon as evidence or taken to reflect any historical reality The final four chapters provide a wider context for the Aegean story surveying the eastern Mediterranean including Cyprus and the Levant and the themes of subsistence and warfare

An Archaeology of Prehistoric Bodies and Embodied Identities in the Eastern Mediterranean Maria Mina, Sevi Triantaphyllou, Yiannis Papadatos, 2016-10-11 In the long tradition of the archaeology of the eastern Mediterranean bodies have held a prominent role in the form of figurines frescos or skeletal remains and have even been responsible for sparking captivating portrayals of the Mother Goddess cult the elegant women of Minoan Crete or the deeds of heroic men Growing literature on the archaeology and anthropology of the body has raised awareness about the dynamic and multifaceted role of the body in experiencing the world and in the construction performance and negotiation of social identity In these 28 thematically arranged papers specialists in the archaeology of the eastern Mediterranean confront the perceived invisibility of past bodies and ask new research questions Contributors discuss new and old evidence they examine how bodies intersect with the material world and explore the role of body situated experiences in creating distinct social and other identities Papers range chronologically from the Palaeolithic to the Early Iron Age and cover the geographical regions of the Aegean Cyprus and the Near East They highlight the new possibilities that emerge for the interpretation of the prehistoric eastern Mediterranean through a combined use of body focused methodological and theoretical perspectives that are nevertheless grounded in the archaeological record

Art, Science, and the Natural World in the Ancient Mediterranean, 300 BC to AD 100 Joshua J. Thomas, 2021 A study on the intersection of art science and the natural world in Hellenistic and Roman times Living with Nature and Things Bethany J. Walker, Abdelkader Al Ghouz, 2020-09-07 This edited volume represents the research results of two international conferences organized and sponsored by the Annemarie Schimmel Kolleg Environmental Approaches in Pre Modern Middle Eastern Studies and Material Culture Methods in the Middle Islamic Periods The following work consists of three parts which correspond to the themes of the aforementioned conferences Contributions to Environmental History and Material Culture Studies and a third which bridges the gap between the two approaches Practice and Knowledge Transfer The present contributions cover a wide range of such topics as urban pollution local perceptions of weather rural estate economy Sufi understandings of nature and the body and mind houses and socialization text and gardens local know how and interdependence in medieval Syrian agriculture crop selection and the medieval agricultural economy Mobile Landscapes and Their Enduring Places Bruno David, Jean-Jacques Delannoy, Jessie Birkett-Rees, 2024-04-04 This Element presents emerging concepts and analytical tools in landscape archaeology In three major sections bookended by an Introduction and Conclusion the Element discusses current and emerging ideas and methods by which to explore how people in the past engaged with each other and their physical settings across the landscape creating their lived environments in the process The Element reviews the scales and temporalities that inform the study of human movements in and between places Learning about how people engaged with each other at individual sites and across the landscape deep in the past is best achieved through transdisciplinary approaches in which archaeologists integrate their methods with those of other specialists The Element introduces these ideas through new research and multiple case studies from around the world culminating in how to archaeomorphologically map anthropic constructions in caves and their contemporary environments Karia and the Dodekanese Birte Poulsen, Poul Pedersen, John Lund, 2021-01-21 Karia and the Dodekanese Vol II presents new research that highlights cultural interrelations and connectivity in the Southeast Aegean and western Asia Minor over a period of more than 700 years Throughout antiquity this region was a dynamic meeting place for eastern and western civilizations Modern geographical limitations have been influential on both archaeological investigations and how we approach cultural relations in the region Comprehensive and valuable research has been carried out on many individual sites in Karia and the Dodekanese but the results have rarely been brought together in an attempt to paint a larger picture of the culture of this region In antiquity the sea did not constitute an obstacle to interaction between societies and cultures but was an effective means of communication for the exchange of goods sculptural styles architectural form and embellishment education and ideas It is clear that close relations existed between the Dodekanese and western Asia Minor during the Classical period Vol I but these relations were evidently further strengthened under the shifting political influences of the Hellenistic kings the Roman Empire and the cosmopolitan late antique period The contributions in this volume comprise investigations on urbanism architectural form and embellishment sculpture pottery and epigraphy
