Alexandria City Of Memory:

Alexandria Michael Haag, 2004 A luminous portrait of the now vanished cosmopolitan city and those who inhabited it during the first half of the 20th century This book is a literary social and political portrait of Alexandria at a high point of its history Drawing on diaries letters and interviews Michael Haag recovers the lost life of the city its cosmopolitan inhabitants and its literary characters Located on the coast of Africa yet rich in historical associations with Western civilization Alexandria was home to an exotic variety of people whose cosmopolitan families had long been rooted in the commerce and the culture of the entire Mediterranean world Alexandria famously excited the imaginations of writers and Haag folds intimate accounts of E M Forster Greek poet Constantine Cavafy and Lawrence Durrell into the story of its inhabitants He recounts the city's experience of the two world wars and explores the communities that gave Alexandria its unique flavor the Greek the Italian and the Jewish The book deftly harnesses the sexual and emotional charge of cosmopolitan life in this extraordinary city and highlights the social and political changes over the decades that finally led to Nasser's Egypt

Alexandrian Cosmopolitanism Hala Halim, 2013-09-19 Interrogating how Alexandria became enshrined as the exemplary cosmopolitan space in the Middle East this book mounts a radical critique of Eurocentric conceptions of cosmopolitanism The dominant account of Alexandrian cosmopolitanism elevates things European in the city's culture and simultaneously places things Egyptian under the sign of decline The book goes beyond this civilization barbarism binary to trace other modes of intercultural solidarity Halim presents a comparative study of literary representations addressing poetry fiction guidebooks and operettas among other genres She reappraises three writers C P Cavafy E M Forster and Lawrence Durrell whom she maintains have been cast as the canon of Alexandria Attending to issues of genre gender ethnicity and class she refutes the view that these writers' representations are largely congruent and uncovers a variety of positions ranging from Orientalist to anti colonial The book then turns to Bernard de Zogheb a virtually unpublished writer and elicits his Camp parodies of elite Levantine mores in operettas one of which centers on Cavafy Drawing on Arabic critical and historical texts as well as contemporary writers and filmmakers' engagement with the canonical triumvirate Halim orchestrates an Egyptian dialogue with the European representations Encyclopedia of Urban Studies Ray Hutchison, 2010

Starr,2009-06-25 Remembering Cosmopolitan Egypt examines the link between cosmopolitanism in Egypt from the nineteenth century through to the mid twentieth century and colonialism While it has been widely noted that such a relationship exists the nature and impact of this dynamic is often overlooked Taking a theoretical literary and historical approach the author argues that the notion of the cosmopolitan is inseparable from and indebted to its foundation in empire Since the late 1970s a number of artistic works have appeared that represent the diversity of ethnic national and religious communities present in Egypt in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries During this period of direct and indirect European domination the cosmopolitan society evident in these texts thrived Through detailed analysis of these texts which include contemporary novels written in Arabic and Hebrew as well as Egyptian films the implications of the close relationship between colonialism and cosmopolitanism are explored This comparative study of the contemporary literary and cultural revival of interest in Egypt s cosmopolitan past will be of interest to students of Middle Eastern Studies Literary and Cultural Studies and Jewish Studies

The Aesthetic Sense of Life Bruce Fleming, 2008
 The Aesthetic Sense of Life is a fast moving book about how to see the world and get value from living every day with the everyday Do the infinite number of sensations we re surrounded with every day have intrinsic value If not what gives them value Who appreciates the sunrise if we don t Is it enough for just us to appreciate it Or do we have to share it The Aesthetic Sense of Life considers and answers to questions such as these in clear readable prose offering a way of looking at life that makes clear its value and its meaning The aesthetic sense of life is neither the viewpoint of the saints for whom the sensations of the world are mere murmuring and illusion nor the viewpoint of those completely fulfilled by their things their gadgets the particulars of their own lives Most of us fall in the middle between these two extremes we appreciate say a good cup of coffee a power tool a new set of towels or a juicy steak but don t think the answer to the riddle of existence is to be found in any of these We appreciate them without thinking them sufficient What s missing from them What s missing is this a sense that they can give meaning to life The Aesthetic Sense of Life proposes that meaning is found not in these particulars but in consciousness of the patterns they form The feel of our towels or the taste of our coffee is just for us Others have their own sensations so they don t need ours What we can share with other people and thus use to re establish the bonds of human warmth are the patterns made by these particulars something others can appreciate as well Awareness of these patterns constitutes the aesthetic sense of life which gives richness and meaning to the everyday
