Creative Writing Colin Bulman, 2007 All writers are familiar with terms like plot, suspense, conflict, and character. They may be less familiar with intertextuality, anachrony, and fabula, and they may be even less confident in achieving the effects these terms refer to. This book defines fictional techniques and guides the potential writer in their use. It may spark off ideas for stories and novels and provide first aid for failing stories. A story's ending may come as a surprise to the reader; suspense may have the reader on the edge of the seat; and conflict may lead to unbearable excitement. It is the job of the writer to create these effects, and this book illustrates how it is done. The book is for students doing creative writing in higher education at A level, and it will be essential reading for anyone interested in writing fiction.

Contents: Definitions of over 200 terms and techniques to do with fiction writing; How to achieve fictional effects; Literary examples of the techniques described; Characteristics of genre as well as literary fiction; Basic but essential techniques such as writing dialogue and using figures of speech; Definitions of major terms used in publishing.

Bloomsbury Good Reading Guide Nick Rennison, Kenneth McLeish, 2003 More than 350 major authors from Margaret Atwood to Mile Zola through Bruce Chatwin, Aldous Huxley, and Nevil Shute are arranged in alphabetical order, each with a short article on style, influences, settings, theme, along with a list of their salient works. At the end of each entry, a Read On section directs readers to similar works by other authors.

Reading Matters Catherine Sheldrick Ross, Lynne (E.F.) McKechnie, Paulette M. Rothbauer, 2006 Drawing upon data published in a variety of scholarly journals and monographs as well as their own research findings, the authors shatter some of the popular myths about reading and offer a cogent case for the library's vital role in the life of a reader.
