

BLP - WEEK1

Most common concerns for a business start up include:

1. a) Avoiding personal liability
 - In unincorporated businesses (sole traders etc) the liabilities of the business will always stay with them meaning if the business assets are not enough to pay the business debts, personal assets such as houses may be used as collateral.
 - In incorporated businesses, the word limited refers to the liability of the business owners/investors. Legal liability stops at an agreed investment amount. If company debts exceed that, creditors have no automatic right to expect the shareholders/members to contribute any more since it is the business that owes them the money and not them personally. If an incorporated business does fall into insolvency then it is likely that all sums invested by founders will be lost.
2. b) Ensuring adequate cash-flow
 - ensuring businesses have enough money coming in to pay outgoings such as stock, rent, staff wages & creating a profit.
 - Insufficient cash flow often occurs for business which are new or small as they have to make payments before they can get paid by their customers.
 - A way of reducing the possibility of a business failing is to create a business plan which sets out the initial investment, its marketing strategy, its projected costs/expenses, and realistic estimate of likely profits. If after this plan the company still has larger outgoings, the business is unlikely to proceed unless the business has large cash reserves or very generous backers. Business looking for external funding will be required to set out a business plan.
 - Managing cash flow is maximising income whilst minimising outgoings meaning the business will need an effective system of credit control (ensuring invoices are sent promptly and chasing problem debts and considering the possibility of factoring debts).
 - Getting money in can be helped by using well drafted terms and conditions of sale which deals with methods of payment and timing. These terms can also deal with paying in arrears and the amount of time each customer must pay depending on their credit rating. Discounts can be offered to customers if they pay early whereas interest can be charged for customers who pay late which all help the businesses working capital so there is cash available to pay the business debts.
 - Businesses are legally entitled to interest when a debt remains unpaid after date specified in contract or if there is no contract, 30 days after the latest of the delivery of the goods/service (Late payment of commercial debts (interest) act 1998).
 - Controlling expenditure is minimising a businesses outgoings e.g. paying debts promptly to avoid paying interest, business bank could impose restrictions on who can make payments above a certain amount or who has access to company credit cards.
