Bloomington's Hours:

The Life and Times of a Teenage Scribbler John David Keith Richards, 2024-10-29 Growing up in Roath Park Cardiff John Richards never envisaged a career in the cut throat corporate City London the world renowned hub of trading retail and financial marketing Spending his childhood obsessed with trainspotting music and girls John had no aspirations to become a player in the arena of stocks and retail But through a combination of luck hard work and happy accidents he found himself in the esoteric world of stockbroking The path of John's career moved into retail analysis and his experience provides a highly engaging and insightful account of the machinations and vicissitudes faced by some of today's most eminent retailers as they struggled to establish themselves in the ever evolving twentieth century New York Magazine, 1997-08-25 New York magazine was born in 1968 after a run as an insert of the New York Herald Tribune and quickly made a place for itself as the trusted resource for readers across the country With award winning writing and photography covering everything from politics and food to theater and fashion the magazine's consistent mission has been to reflect back to its audience the energy and excitement of the city itself while celebrating New York as both a place and an idea Selling the Lower East Side Christopher Mele, 2000 The Lower East Side of Manhattan is rich in stories of poor immigrants who flocked there in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries of beatniks hippies and artists who peopled it mid century and of the real estate developers and politicians who have always shaped what is now termed the East Village Today the musical Rent plays on Broadway to a mostly white and suburban audience MTV exploits the neighborhood's newly trendy squalor in a film promotion and on the Internet a cyber soap opera and travel related Web pages lure members of the middle class to enjoy a commodified and sanitized version of the neighborhood In this sweeping account Christopher Mele analyzes the political and cultural forces that have influenced the development of this distinctive community He describes late nineteenth century notions of the Lower East Side as a place of entrenched poverty ethnic plurality political activism and low culture that elicited feelings of revulsion and fear among the city's elite and middle classes The resulting and ongoing struggle between government and residents over affordable and decent housing has in turn affected real estate practices and urban development policies Selling the Lower East Side recounts the resistance tactics used by community residents as well as the impulse on the part of some to perpetuate the image of the neighborhood as dangerous romantic and bohemian clinging to the marginality that has been central to the identity of the East Village and subverting attempts to portray it as new and improved Ironically this very image of urban grittiness has been appropriated by a cultural marketplace hungry for new fodder Mele explores the ways that developers media executives and others have coopted the area's characteristics analyzing the East Village as a style provider where what is being marketed is difference The result is a visionary look at how political and economic actions transform neighborhoods and at what happens when a neighborhood is what is being consumed New York City 2003, 2002-08-27 A guide to New York City for travelers in a range of budgets providing reviews and ratings of various attractions restaurants and accommodations with suggested itineraries and maps Finding Balance: 17

Finding Balance Living in New York City is not without its challenges This book is a compilation of my research on different approaches to living a rich balanced life in New York City People were asked about where they go as part of their routine the kinds of things they do in order to find balance and the places they have gone to outside of NYC for the past three years or since they moved here It was a great exercise of introspection for most participants I set out on this search partly because I believe everyone can benefit from this kind of dialogue especially me Since this experience is common to all but different for everyone I hope it speaks to the richness in human experience Fodor's New York City
