Bystander CPR Anette Nord, 2017-10-31 Background It has been proved that bystander cardiopulmonary resuscitation CPR saves lives however which training method in CPR is most instructive and whether survival is affected by the training level of the bystander have not yet been fully described. Aim To identify the factors that may affect 7th grade students acquisition of CPR skills during CPR training and their willingness to act and to describe 30 day survival from out of hospital cardiac arrest OHCA after bystander CPR and the actions performed by laymen versus off duty medically educated personnel. Methods Studies I-III investigate a CPR training intervention given to students in 7th grade during 2013-2014. The classes were randomized to the main intervention the mobile phone application app or DVD based training. Some of the classes were randomized to one or several additional interventions a practical test with feedback reflection a web course a visit from elite athletes and automated external defibrillator AED training. The students practical skills willingness to act and knowledge of stroke symptoms symptoms of acute myocardial infarction AMI and lifestyle factors were assessed directly after training and at 6 months using the Laerdal PC Skill Reporting system and entered into a modified version of the Cardiff test scoring sheet and a questionnaire. The Cardiff test resulted in a total score of 12-48 points and the questionnaire resulted in a total score of 0-7 points for stroke symptoms 0-9 points for symptoms of AMI and 0-6 points on lifestyle factors. Study IV is based on retrospective data from the national quality register the Swedish registry of cardiopulmonary resuscitation 2010-2014. Results A total of 1339 students were included in the CPR training intervention. The DVD based group was superior to the app based group in CPR skills with a total score of 35 SD 4.0 vs 33 SD 4.2 points directly after training p < .05.

The Guide to National Professional Certification Programs Philip M. Harris, 2001 The job market continues to change. Highly skilled and specialized workers are in demand. Traditional education cannot meet all the needs to create specialty skill workers. Certification provides up to date training and development while promoting individual or professional skills and knowledge in a focused manner. Certification as a way of continuing professional education can also be more cost effective.
