Bluefield In Vintage Postcards Wv Postcard History Series:

Bluefield in Vintage Postcards Mary Margaret Spracher Annett, 2004 Nestled at the foot of East River Mountain in the southern tip of West Virginia Bluefield calls itself Nature's Air Conditioned City and is a place of great cultural industrial and natural wealth The early to mid 1900s were a booming time for the city thanks to coal mining and the Norfolk and Western Railway For the many people who lived in or traveled through the region during that era postcards provided a simple and convenient way to send both personal correspondence and business communications Today Bluefield continues to change and evolve but maintains a strong sense of history with many of its buildings and homes listed on the National Register of Historic Places American Book Publishing Record, 2003 Southern West Virginia James E. Casto, 2004-07-27 The history of West Virginia is the story of coal and the people whose lives are forever changed by it Coal was mined in Southern West Virginia even before the state's birth in 1863 but was mostly consumed within a few miles of where it was dug When the railroads arrived on the scene they not only provided a means of getting that coal to market they also brought in trainloads of workers to the sparsely populated region With the mines generally located in remote out of the way spots operators were forced to build housing for those workers and their families as well as company stores schools and churches everything needed in a small community Overnight the nation's demand for coal turned sleepy little places in Southern West Virginia into boomtowns and helped cities such as Charleston and Huntington grow and prosper as gateways to and from the coalfields
