

A black and white photograph of B.B. King, an African American man, shown in profile from the chest up. He is wearing a dark suit jacket over a light-colored shirt and a patterned tie. He is holding a hollow-body electric guitar, which has the name "Lucille" written on the headstock. His hands are positioned on the fretboard and strings. The lighting is dramatic, with strong highlights on his face and the guitar, and deep shadows elsewhere. The background is dark and out of focus.

"B.B.'s life and career is a precious piece of American history that no one could have told better—except maybe Lucille."
