African Biogeography Climate Change And Human Evolution Human Evolution Series:

African Biogeography, Climate Change & Human Evolution Timothy G. Bromage, Friedemann Schrenk, 1999
Interpreting early human evolution in the context of the local ecology and adaptation to specific habitats this interdisciplinary book systematically assesses the possible role of climate change in driving early human evolution African Biogeography, Climate Change, and Human Evolution Timothy G. Bromage, Friedemann Schrenk, 2000-01-27 Bringing an ecological and biogeographic perspective to recent fossil finds this book provides a new synthesis of ideas on hominid evolution and will be a valuable resource for a variety of researchers

Encyclopedia of Paleoclimatology and Ancient Environments Vivien Gornitz, 2008-10-31 One of Springer's Major Reference Works this book gives the reader a truly global perspective It is the first major reference work in its field Paleoclimate topics covered in the encyclopedia give the reader the capability to place the observations of recent global warming in the context of longer term natural climate fluctuations Significant elements of the encyclopedia include recent developments in paleoclimate modeling paleo ocean circulation as well as the influence of geological processes and biological feedbacks on global climate change The encyclopedia gives the reader an entry point into the literature on these and many other groundbreaking topics

Origins of the Social Mind Bruce J. Ellis, David F. Bjorklund, 2005-01-01 Applying an evolutionary framework to advance the understanding of child development this volume brings together leading figures to contribute chapters in their areas of expertise Researcher and student friendly chapters adhere to a common format

Neanderthals and Modern Humans Clive Finlayson, 2004-03-11 Neanderthals and Modern Humans develops the theme of the close relationship between climate change ecological change and biogeographical patterns in humans during the Pleistocene In particular it challenges the view that Modern Human superiority caused the extinction of the Neanderthals between 40 and 30 thousand years ago Clive Finlayson shows that to understand human evolution the spread of humankind across the world and the extinction of archaic populations we must move away from a purely theoretical evolutionary ecology base and realise the importance of wider biogeographic patterns including the role of tropical and temperate refugia His proposal is that Neanderthals became extinct because their world changed faster than they could cope with and that their relationship with the arriving Modern Humans where they met was subtle

Only in Africa Norman Owen-Smith, 2021-10-07 Demonstrates how Africa's physical features savannas and abundant grazers enabled frugivorous apes to become savanna living hunters

Handbook of Paleoanthropology Winfried Henke, Ian Tattersall, 2007-05-10 This 3 volume handbook brings together contributions by the world's leading specialists that reflect the broad spectrum of modern palaeoanthropology thus presenting an indispensable resource for professionals and students alike Vol 1 reviews principles methods and approaches recounting recent advances and state of the art knowledge in phylogenetic analysis palaeoecology and evolutionary theory and philosophy Vol 2 examines primate origins evolution behaviour and adaptive variety emphasizing integration of fossil data with contemporary knowledge of the behaviour and ecology of living primates in natural environments Vol 3 deals with fossil and molecular evidence for the evolution of Homo sapiens and its fossil relatives African Paleoeology and Human Evolution Sally C. Reynolds, René Bobe, 2022-06-09

Humans evolved in the dynamic landscapes of Africa under conditions of pronounced climatic geological and environmental change during the past 7 million years This book brings together detailed records of the paleontological and archaeological sites in Africa that provide the basic evidence for understanding the environments in which we evolved Chapters cover specific sites with comprehensive accounts of their geology paleontology paleobotany and their ecological significance for our evolution Other chapters provide important regional syntheses of past ecological conditions This book is unique in merging a broad geographic scope all of Africa and deep time framework the past 7 million years in discussing the geological context and paleontological records of our evolution and that of organisms that evolved alongside our ancestors It will offer important insights to anyone interested in human evolution including researchers and graduate students in paleontology archaeology anthropology and geology Cenozoic Mammals of Africa Lars Werdelin, William Joseph Sanders, 2010-07-20

This impressively comprehensive volume is a long awaited and worthy successor to the now outdated 1978 classic Evolution of African Mammals A must have reference work for everyone interested in mammalian evolution David Pilbeam Harvard University and the Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology Geographies of Race and Food Rachel Slocum, Arun Saldanha, 2016-04-15

While interest in the relations of power and identity in food explodes a hesitancy remains about calling these racial What difference does race make in the fields where food is grown the places it is sold and the manner in which it is eaten How do we understand farming and provisioning tasting and picking eating and being eaten hunger and gardening better by paying attention to race This collection argues there is an unacknowledged racial dimension to the production and consumption of food under globalization Building on case studies from across the world it advances the conceptualization of race by emphasizing embodiment circulation and materiality while adding to food advocacy an antiracist perspective it often lacks Within the three socio physical spatialities of food fields bodies and markets the collection reveals how race and food are intricately linked An international and multidisciplinary team of scholars complements each other to shed light on how human groups become entrenched in myriad hierarchies through food at scales from the dining room and market stall to the slave trade and empire Following foodways as they constitute racial formations in often surprising ways the chapters achieve a novel approach to the process of race as one that cannot be reduced to biology culture or capitalism Bones, Stones and Molecules David W. Cameron, Colin P. Groves, 2004-06-03

Bones Stones and Molecules provides some of the best evidence for resolving the debate between the two hypotheses of human origins The debate between the Out of Africa model and the Multiregional hypothesis is examined through the functional and developmental processes associated with the evolution of the human skull and face and focuses on the significance of the Australian record The book analyzes important new discoveries that have occurred recently and examines evidence that is not available elsewhere Cameron and Groves argue that the existing evidence supports a recent origin for modern humans from Africa They also specifically relate these two theories to interpretations of the origins of the first Australians The book provides an up to date interpretation of the fossil archaeological and the molecular evidence specifically as it relates to Asia and Australia in particular Readily accessible to the layperson and professional Provides concise coverage of current scientific evidence Presents a robust computer generated model of human speciation over the last 7 million years Well illustrated with figures and photographs of important fossil specimens Presents a synthesis of great ape and human evolution

African Genesis Sally C. Reynolds, Andrew Gallagher, 2012-03-29 This book reviews key themes and developments in palaeoanthropology exploring their impact on our understanding of human origins in Africa

The First Humans Frederick E. Grine, John G Fleagle, Richard E. Leakey, 2009-05-24 There are some issues in human paleontology that seem to be timeless Most deal with the origin and early evolution of our own genus something about which we should care Some of these issues pertain to taxonomy and systematics How many species of Homo were there in the Pliocene and Pleistocene How do we identify the earliest members the genus Homo If there is more than one Plio Pleistocene species how do they relate to one another and where and when did they evolve Other issues relate to questions about body size proportions and the functional adaptations of the locomotor skeleton When did the human postcranial Bauplan evolve and for what reasons What behaviors and what behavioral limitations can be inferred from the postcranial bones that have been attributed to Homo habilis and Homo erectus Still other issues relate to growth development and life history strategies and the biological and archeological evidence for diet and behavior in early Homo It is often argued that dietary change played an important role in the origin and early evolution of our genus with stone tools opening up scavenging and hunting opportunities that would have added meat protein to the diet of Homo Still other issues relate to the environmental and climatic context in which this genus evolved

Dental Wear in Evolutionary and Biocultural Contexts Christopher W. Schmidt, James T. Watson, 2019-09-10 Dental Wear in Evolutionary and Biocultural Contexts provides a single source for disseminating the current state of the art research regarding dental wear across a variety of hominoid species under a number of temporal and spatial contexts The volume begins with a brief introductory chapter addressing the general history understandings and approaches to the study of dental wear Remaining chapters cover dental macrowear and dental microwear Students and professionals in anthropology specifically paleoanthropologists bioarcheologists archaeologists and primatologists will find this book to be a valuable resource In addition it is a helpful guide for dentists and other dental professionals interested in dental function

Hominin Environments in the East African Pliocene René Bobe, Zeresenay Alemseged, Anna K. Behrensmeyer, 2007-09-08 This volume presents the work of researchers at many sites spanning the East African Pliocene The authors take a broad approach that seeks to compare paleoenvironmental and paleoecological patterns across localities and among various taxonomic groups This volume aims to synthesize large amounts of faunal data and to present the evolution of East African vertebrates in the context of environmental and climatic changes during the Pliocene Out of Africa I John G Fleagle, John J. Shea, Frederick E. Grine, Andrea L. Baden, Richard E. Leakey, 2010-08-20 For the first two thirds of our evolutionary history we hominins were restricted to Africa Dating from about two million years ago hominin fossils first appear in Eurasia This volume addresses many of the issues surrounding this initial hominin intercontinental dispersal Why did hominins first leave Africa in the early Pleistocene and not earlier What do we know about the adaptations of the hominins that dispersed their diet locomotor abilities cultural abilities Was there a single dispersal event or several Was the hominin dispersal part of a broader faunal expansion of African mammals northward What route or routes did dispersing populations take The Oxford Handbook of African Archaeology Peter Mitchell, Paul Lane, 2013-07-04 This Handbook provides a comprehensive synthesis of African archaeology covering the entirety of the continent's past from the beginnings of human evolution to the archaeological legacy of European colonialism It includes a mixture of key methodological and theoretical issues and debates and situates the subject's contemporary practice The Human Lineage Matt Cartmill, Fred H. Smith, 2009-03-30 This textbook aimed at advanced undergraduates and postgraduates in paleoanthropology courses tackles a rather difficult task that of presenting the substantial body of paleontological genetic geological and archaeological evidence regarding human evolution and the associated scientific history in a logical and readable way without sacrificing either clarity or detail the sheer quality of the writing and explanatory synthesis in this book will undoubtedly make it a valuable resource for students for many years

PaleoAnthropology 2010 This book focuses on the last ten million years of human history from the hominoid radiations to the emergence and diversification of modern humanity It draws upon the fossil record to shed light on the key scientific issues principles methods and history in paleoanthropology The book proceeds through the fossil record of human evolution by historical stages representing the acquisition of major human features that explain the success and distinctive properties of modern Homo sapiens Key features Provides thorough coverage of the fossil record and sites with data on key variables such as cranial capacity and body size estimates Offers a balanced critical assessment of the interpretative models explaining pattern in the fossil record Each chapter incorporates a Blind Alley box focusing on once prevalent ideas now rejected such as the arboreal theory seed eating single species hypothesis and Pitted man Promotes critical thinking by students while allowing instructors flexibility in structuring their teaching Densely illustrated with informative well labelled anatomical drawings and photographs Includes an annotated bibliography for advanced inquiry Written by established leaders in the field providing depth of expertise on evolutionary theory and anatomy through to functional morphology this textbook is essential reading for all advanced undergraduate students and beginning graduate students in biological anthropology

Lowly Origin Jonathan Kingdon, 2021-01-12 Our ability to walk on two legs is not only a characteristic human trait but one of the things that made us human in the first place Once our ancestors could walk on two legs they began to do many of the things that apes cannot do cross wide open spaces manipulate complex tools communicate with new signal systems and light fires Titled after the last two words of Darwin's Descent of Man and written by a leading scholar of human evolution Lowly Origin is the first book to explain the sources and consequences of bipedalism to a broad audience Along the way it accounts for recent fossil discoveries that show us a still incomplete but much bushier family tree than most of us learned about in school Jonathan Kingdon uses the very latest findings from ecology biogeography and paleontology to build a new and up to date account of how four legged apes became two legged hominins He describes what it took to get up onto two legs as well as the protracted consequences of that step some of which led straight to modern humans and others to very different bipeds This allows him to make sense of recently unearthed evidence suggesting that no fewer than twenty species of humans and hominins have lived and become extinct Following the evolution of two legged creatures from our earliest lowly forebears to the present Kingdon concludes with future options for the last surviving biped A major new narrative of human evolution Lowly Origin is the best available account of what it meant and what it means to walk on two feet

Medicine and Evolution Sarah Elton,Paul O'Higgins,2008-06-02 Can an evolutionary perspective be integrated in day to day practice and is it of value in medical education and training If so when and how Highlighting exciting areas of research into the evolutionary basis of health and disease Medicine and Evolution Current Applications and Future Prospects answers these questions and more I
