and Natural History, 1886 Transactions of the Leicestershire Architectural and Archaeological Society, 1888 Reading Ruskin's Cultural Heritage Gill Chitty, 2023-04-28 John Ruskin's critical commentary on culture and society transformative in his own time established him as a leading critic of the 19th century. His prescient thinking resonates powerfully with today's issues in cultural heritage conservation. This volume presents his ideas in context, key extracts from his works, and future directions for his foundational ideas. Ruskin's passionate responses to the environmental and social changes of his day chime with contemporary ideas on themes like sustainability, ethical production, and environmentalism. Though widely recognised as a key figure in preservation history, his heritage work is rarely appreciated in full context and breadth. This volume presents six stimulating essays on Ruskin's readership and reception, his transformative perceptions of heritage, futures, and provocative writing on cultural landscapes and the arts and crafts. Extracts from both well-known and lesser-known works accompany each chapter to reflect the distinctive vocal quality of his texts, from his writing on architecture and buildings to landscape and cultural heritage. The volume offers a richer description of cultural context and meaning than usually afforded to Ruskin's work in conservation and critical heritage studies, finding its resonance and relevance. Written for an academic and professional audience in heritage studies and historic building conservation, and particularly relevant for cultural heritage management, this is a core text and reference work for undergraduate and postgraduate students in history of art and architecture, heritage studies, and architectural building conservation, also central to interests of cultural historians and scholars of nineteenth-century Victorian history and literature. Proceedings and Transactions of the Kilkenny and South-east of Ireland Archaeological Society Kilkenny and South-east of Ireland Archaeological Society, 1856 Reports and papers of the architectural and archaeological societies Associated Architectural Societies, Volume 7 Victorian Perceptions of Renaissance Architecture Katherine Wheeler, 2017-07-05 In the mid 1880s The Builder, an influential British architectural journal, published an article characterizing Renaissance architecture as a corrupt bastardization of the classical architecture of Greece and Rome. By the turn of the century, however, the same journal praised the Renaissance architect Filippo Brunelleschi as the Christopher Columbus of modern architecture. Victorian Perceptions of Renaissance Architecture 1850-1914 examines these conflicting characterizations and reveals how the writing of architectural history was intimately tied to the rise of the professional architect and the formalization of architectural education in late nineteenth-century Britain. Drawing on a broad range of evidence, including literary texts, professional journals, university curricula, and census records, Victorian Perceptions reframes works by seminal authors such as John Ruskin, Walter Pater, John Addington Symonds, and Geoffrey Scott alongside those by architect authors such as William J. Anderson and Reginald Blomfield within contemporary architectural debates. Relevant for architectural historians as well as literary scholars and those in Victorian studies, Victorian Perceptions reassesses the history of Renaissance architecture within the formation of a modern British architectural profession.
