Young, 2014-10-01 In the 1950s the brethren at the Benedictine Abbey of Saint John the Baptist in Collegeville Minnesota the largest Benedictine abbey in the world decided to expand their campus including building a new church From a who's who of architectural stars such as Walter Gropius Richard Neutra Pietro Belluschi Barry Byrne and Eero Saarinen the Benedictines chose a former member of the Bauhaus Marcel Breuer In collaboration with the monks this untested religious designer produced a work of modern sculptural concrete architecture that reenvisioned what a church could be and set a worldwide standard for midcentury religious design Saint John's Abbey Church documents the dialogue of the design process as Breuer instructed the monks about architecture and they in turn guided him and his associates in the construction of a sacred space in the crucial years of liturgical reform A reading of letters drawings and other archival materials shows how these conversations gave shape to design elements from the church's floor plan to the liturgical furnishings art and incomparable stained glass installed within it The book offers a rare detailed view of how a patron and architect work together in a successful building campaign one that in this case lasted for two decades and resulted in designs for twelve buildings ten of which were completed The post World War II years were critical in the development of religious and architectural experiences in the United States experiences that came together in the construction of Saint John's Abbey and University Church and that find their full expression in Victoria M Young's account of the process Using the liturgy of the mid twentieth century as a cornerstone for understanding the architecture produced to support it her book showcases the importance of modernism in the design of sacred space and of Marcel Breuer's role in setting the standard The Architects' Journal, 1994 Architecture, Technology and Process Chris Abel, 2007-03-30 This new selection of essays follows Chris Abel's previous best selling collection Architecture and Identity Drawing upon a wide range of knowledge and disciplines the author argues that underlying technological changes in the process of architectural production are fundamental changes in the way we think about machines and the world we live in Key topics include new patterns of urbanism in the fast growing cities of Asia Pacific metaphorical extensions of mind and body in cyberspace the divergent European and North American values shaping Sir Norman Foster's and Frank Gehry's work and the collaborative work methods and technologies creating the adaptable design practices of today
