British Architectural Theory 1540-1750 Caroline van Eck, 2018-02-05 This title was published in 2003 Although it is often assumed that British writing on architectural theory really started in the 18th century there is in fact a large corpus of writing on architecture pre dating the introduction of Palladianism by Lord Burlington Some of it such as the English editions of Serlio and Palladio belongs to the Vitruvian tradition But many texts elude such easy classification such as the prolonged but hardly studied discussions on church architecture which are both in form and content very different from the way that theme was handled in Italian Renaissance treatises This collection of English writing on architecture from 1540 to 1750 offers a large selection of fragments some of them never published before They discuss the nature of architecture the practicalities of building the sense of the past religious architecture and classicism

Painterly Perspective and Piety John F. Moffitt, 2014-01-10 While the Renaissance is generally perceived to be a secular movement the majority of large artworks executed in 15th century Italy were from ecclesiastical commissions Because of the nature of primarily basilica plan churches a parishioner's view was directed by the diminishing parallel lines formed by the walls of the structure Appearing to converge upon a mutual point this resulted in an artistic phenomenon known as the vanishing point As applied to ecclesiastical artwork the Catholic Vanishing Point CVP was deliberately situated upon or aligned with a given object such as the Eucharist wafer or Host the head of Christ or the womb of the Virgin Mary possessing great symbolic significance in Roman liturgy Masaccio's fresco painting of the Trinity circa 1427 in the Florentine church of Santa Maria Novella analyzed in physical and symbolic detail provides the first illustration of a consistently employed linear perspective within an ecclesiastical setting Leonardo's Last Supper Venetian's St Lucy Altarpiece and Tommaso's Transparente illustrate the continuation of this use of liturgical perspective
