Programming Constraint Services Christian Schulte,2003-08-01 Constraint Programming is an approach for modeling and solving combinatorial problems that has proven successful in many applications It builds on techniques developed in Artificial Intelligence Logic Programming and operations Research Key techniques are constraint propagation and heuristic search Constraint Programming is based on an abstraction that decomposes a problem solver into a reusable constraint engine and a declarative program modeling the problem The constraint engine implements the required propagation and search algorithms It can be realized as a library for a general purpose programming language e g C as an extension of an existing language e g Prolog or as a system with its own dedicated language The present book is concerned with the architecture and implementation of constraint engines It presents a new concurrent architecture that is far superior to the sequential architecture underlying Prolog The new architecture is based on concurrent search with copying and recomputation rather than sequential search with trailing and backtracking One advantage of the concurrent approach is that it accommodates any search strategy Furthermore it considerably simplifies the implementation of constraint propagation algorithms since it eliminates the need to account for trailing and backtracking The book investigates an expressive generalization of the concurrent architecture that accommodates propagation preserving combinators known as deep guard combinators for negation disjunction implication and re cation of constraint propagators Such combinators are beyond the scope of Prolog s technology In the concurrent approach they can be obtained with a re ective encapsulation primitive The Logic Programming Paradigm Krzysztof R. Apt,Victor W. Marek,Mirek Truszczyński,David S. Warren,2012-12-06 Logic Programming was founded 25 years ago This exciting new text reveals both the evolution of this programming paradigm since its inception and the impressively broad scope of current research in Logic Programming The contributions to the book deal with both theoretical and practical issues They address such diverse topics as computational molecular biology machine learning mobile computing multi agent systems planning numerical computing and dynamical systems database systems an alternative to the formulas as types approach program semantics and analysis and natural language processing The contributors are all leading world experts in Logic Programming and their contributions were all invited and refereed

Computer Assisted Music and Dramatics Ambuja Salgaonkar,Makarand Velankar,2023-06-24 This book is intended for researchers interested in using computational methods and tools to engage with music dance and theatre The chapters have evolved out of presentations and deliberations at an international workshop entitled Computer Assisted Music and Dramatics Possibilities and Challenges organized by University of Mumbai in honour of Professor Hari Sahasrabudhe a renowned educator and a pioneering computational musicologist CM of Indian classical music The workshop included contributions from CM as well as musicians with a special focus on South Asian arts The case studies and reflective essays here are based on analyses of genres practices and theoretical constructs modelled computationally They offer a balanced and complementary perspective to help innovation in the synthesis of music by extracting information from recorded performances This material would be of interest to scholars of the sciences and humanities and facilitate exchanges and generation of ideas

Ships without a Shore Anne Pierce,2017-09-08 Childhood in America has changed and not for the better From day care for babies to the exhausting array of activities for children to the storm of lurid and violent shows now deemed appropriate for the young to the expectation that teenagers build resumes childhood has been thoroughly redefined Anne R Pierce argues that this radical re definition has been embraced with remarkably little discussion about what children by nature need Pierce submits that we have latched onto opinions about childrearing that are potentially harmful to children If traditions are choices to be embraced or abandoned at our discretion and adult self fulfillment is a primary determinant in those choices the fundamentals of the well wrought childhood are easily forgotten Steeped in intellectual permissiveness we have convinced ourselves that parental substitutes are as good as parents themselves at caring for children that the concepts of nurture and of the maternal are archaic and irrelevant that more lessons and sports are better than less and that the earlier one embarks upon them the better and that innocence and knowledge are less important than worldly attitudes and competitive skills

Understanding and challenging the theories and agendas behind childrearing trends is a pressing need and the subject of this book. Pierce takes an honest look at the evidence on the effects of daycare and of hyper structuring children. She gives voice to the many intelligent and estimable educators, child development experts, researchers and social commentators who are ignored because their conclusions are hard to bear. Equally important, Pierce says, is attention to that inner tug of love and conscience which many of us have been programmed to ignore. Modern American children are expected to adjust and to understand as adults would the complexities and vicissitudes of public as opposed to private life. For them, childhood is fast becoming a distant memory. Could it be that America's thrust forward leaves children without a solid foundation upon which to grow? This is the sobering question asked and answered in this challenging book.

Topics in Artificial Intelligence

Maria Teresa Escrig Monferrer, Francisco Toledo Lobo, Elisabet Golobardes i Ribé, 2003-06-30. This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 5th Catalan Conference on Artificial Intelligence CCIA 2002 held in Castellón, Spain, in October 2002. The 37 revised full papers presented were carefully reviewed and selected from 77 submissions. The papers are organized in topical sections on reasoning, models, constraint satisfaction, machine learning and classification, multi-agent systems and computer vision and robotics.

Balanced Automation Systems II

Luis M. Camarinha-Matos, Hamideh Afsarmanesh, 2013-06-29. Box 4 for Balanced Automation research in this area is still young and emerging. In our opinion, the development of hybrid balanced solutions to cope with a variety of automation levels and manual approaches is a much more challenging research problem than the search for a purely automatic solution. Various research activities described in this book illustrate some of these challenges through the development proposals, assisting tools and initial results. In certain chapters, however, the balancing aspects are not yet achieved in the research area, but their inclusion in this book is intended to give a broader and more comprehensive perspective of the multiple areas involved. One important aspect to be noticed is the extension and application of the concept of balanced automation to all areas of the manufacturing enterprise. Clearly, the need for a balanced approach is not restricted to the shop floor components; rather, it applies to all other areas, as illustrated by the wide spectrum of research contributions found in this book. For instance, the need for an appropriate integration of multiple systems and their perspectives is particularly important for the implantation of virtual enterprises. Although both the BASYS 95 and the BASYS 96 conferences have provided important contributions, approaches and tools for the implantation of balanced automation systems, there are a number of areas that require further research.

Models for Parallel and Distributed Computation R. Correa, Ines de Castro Dutra, Mario Fiallos, Luiz Fernando Gomes da Silva, 2013-06-29. Parallel and distributed computation has been gaining a great lot of attention in the last decades. During this period, the advances attained in computing and communication technologies and the reduction in the costs of those technologies played a central role in the rapid growth of the interest in the use of parallel and distributed computation in a number of areas of engineering and sciences. Many actual applications have been successfully implemented in various platforms, varying from pure shared memory to totally distributed models passing through hybrid approaches such as distributed shared memory architectures. Parallel and distributed computation differs from classical sequential computation in some of the following major aspects: the number of processing units, independent local clock for each unit, the number of memory units, and the programming model. For representing this diversity and depending on what level we are looking at the problem, researchers have proposed some models to abstract the main characteristics or parameters: physical components or logical mechanisms of parallel computers. The problem of establishing a suitable model is to find a reasonable trade-off among simplicity, power of expression, and universality. Then be able to study and analyze more precisely the behavior of parallel applications. The Federal Reporter, 1993. Paperbound Books in Print, 1992. Popular Mechanics, 1995-04.
