The Testing Charade Daniel Koretz, 2017-08-31 For decades we've been studying experimenting with and wrangling over different approaches to improving public education and there's still little consensus on what works and what to do The one thing people seem to agree on however is that schools need to be held accountable we need to know whether what they're doing is actually working But what does that mean in practice High stakes tests Lots of them And that has become a major problem Daniel Koretz one of the nation's foremost experts on educational testing argues in The Testing Charade that the whole idea of test based accountability has failed it has increasingly become an end in itself harming students and corrupting the very ideals of teaching In this powerful polemic built on unimpeachable evidence and rooted in decades of experience with educational testing Koretz calls out high stakes testing as a sham a false idol that is ripe for manipulation and shows little evidence of leading to educational improvement Rather than setting up incentives to divert instructional time to pointless test prep he argues we need to measure what matters and measure it in multiple ways not just via standardized tests Right now we're lying to ourselves about whether our children are learning And the longer we accept that the more damage we do It's time to end our blind reliance on high stakes tests With The Testing Charade Daniel Koretz insists that we face the facts and change course and he gives us a blueprint for doing better

Being Fair, Faring Better Roberta Gatti,Sandor Karacsony,Kosuke Anan,Celine Ferré,Carmen de Paz Nieves,Valerie Morrica,Carmen de Paz,Abla Safir,2016-02-05 In Central and Eastern European countries inequalities for Roma families living in marginalized communities start early and are striking Some of these inequalities reflect hard wired family circumstances such as being born in poverty Others reflect lack of opportunities such as limited access to those basic goods and services that are necessary not only for realizing one s potential in life but also for living with dignity Gaps between Roma and non Roma widen over the lifecycle in a way that reinforces and perpetuates disadvantage and translates into significantly unequal outcomes despite the fact that Roma report having similar aspirations to those of their non Roma neighbors Promoting equal opportunities for disadvantaged Roma is not only an imperative for societies that want to call themselves fair but it is also a smart economic choice especially in those countries where populations are aging rapidly Investing early with a particular emphasis on supporting healthy and cognitive development for disadvantaged Roma children is likely to go a long way in promoting fair chances However leveling the playing field in childhood is likely not enough disadvantaged Roma continue being exposed to unequal opportunities at key nodes in their lives such as when pursuing education or when looking for a job Therefore it is as important that a broader set of policies address some of the circumstances in which a large share of Roma children grow up including access to employment and decent living conditions for their families Implementing interventions that help overcome these interrelated barriers will require strong ownership at the national level coordinated policies across different ministries and government levels and an integrated delivery system that is grounded in approaches that are customized to local conditions and implemented in a participatory manner Good practices in Europe and elsewhere show that inclusion of the most disadvantaged including many Roma is possible and the current programming cycle for European Funds represents a unique opportunity to fund such interventions
