Michael J. Pomante II, Scot Schraufnagel, Quan Li, 2023-12-22 In the wake of Shelby County v Holder and the January 6 Capitol insurrection changes to election laws policies and especially access to voting have become a key political battleground A central point of contention is whether new restrictive voting laws intentionally discriminate against Black and Hispanic subpopulations in the United States Conversely do policies that expand voting access favor Democrats and increase the possibility of election fraud In The Cost of Voting in the American States Michael J Pomante II Scot Schraufnagel and Quan Li test these questions The authors look specifically for systematic outcomes produced by distinctive election policies in the American states First they establish a competent measure of voting restrictions to begin this unraveling The authors create a Cost of Voting Index COVI for the fifty states which uses a statistical procedure to extract an underlying dimension and to determine significance from state laws based on how restrictive the policies are The authors call the underlying dimension extracted the cost of voting With this measure in place they evaluate which states have a higher cost of voting how this cost impacts who votes and whether there is a correlation between the cost of voting and minority populations Using

Racial Threat Theory arguments the authors demonstrate that states with larger or growing Black and Hispanic populations have more restricted voting and that these restrictive voting laws disproportionately demobilize these populations in predictable ways States with a higher cost of voting also show lower minority electoral success as well as a larger gap in Black and female representation and the authors reveal that decreasing the cost of voting does not lead to fraud or favor one party over another The Cost of Voting in the American States makes a case for a new preclearance formula and the COVI provides a viable approach for future election law

Election Administration and the Politics of Voter Access Kevin Pallister,2017-06-26 This book is the first systematic study to investigate why it is easier to vote in some democracies than in others It draws on in depth case studies from Central America and data from Latin America more broadly to address how political parties and other actors interact in constructing election administration rules and procedures Using a theoretical framework centred on electoral threat party capacity and electoral management body composition the author identifies multiple pathways to inclusive and restrictive election administration

Individual electoral registration and electoral administration Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Political and Constitutional Reform Committee,2011-11-04 In this report the Political and Constitutional Reform Committee welcomes the Government s decision to move to a system of individual electoral registration in 2014 15 to replace the existing outdated system of registration by household The Committee raises a number of concerns about the Government s implementation plan Firstly levels of registration will fall by an uncertain amount at first and if this fall is uneven across the country it will have a marked and potentially partisan effect on the parliamentary constituency boundaries to be used at the 2020 general election This risk is enhanced by the proposal to make voter registration voluntary The Committee recommends that it should initially be an offence to fail to complete a voter registration form as is currently the case in Northern Ireland A second concern is that the electoral registers used for the 2015 general election and initial invitations to register individually will contain significant inaccuracies This is because of the Government's decision not to remove voters registered in 2013 from the rolls until after that general combined with the decision not to hold a full household canvass in 2014 Thirdly vulnerable electors may be disenfranchised by the Government's decision to require postal and proxy voters to register individually before the 2015 general election The Committee also recommends the abolition of the edited register The report also comments on other electoral reforms the Government is proposing including to the timetable for parliamentary elections and largely endorses them
