Milieu Elisha Jane Cohn, 2025-04-15 In this creaturely theory of the novel Elisha Cohn rethinks the status of animals in recent global fiction arguing that literary representation of animals should matter to any reader invested in the novel as a form and showing how literary style makes knowable our imperiled multispecies worlds Cohn argues that the animal lives of contemporary fiction move beyond allegories of globalization's fracture of subjectivity by emphasizing the creaturely dimensions of narrative This shift in focus registers through recent fiction's fascination with milieus environments made perceptible through sentience that humans share with other creatures Showing how theories of milieu from Jacob von Uexküll George Canguilhem and Sylvia Wynter to recent studies in comparative cognition converge with and are conceptually indebted to Indigenous and Black ontologies Cohn argues that the milieu not only explains the centrality of animals to contemporary fiction but also promotes dialogue across disciplines invested in anti-hierarchical accounts of embodied life Each chapter foregrounds formal resonances in texts from the mid 1990s through the present including work by T. A. Obrecht Yoko Tawada NoViolet Bulawayo Sigrid Nunez Jesmyn Ward Linda Hogan Lucy Ellmann Amitav Ghosh and Aminatta Forna Throughout Cohn compellingly argues for the centrality of narrative voice in avoiding deferring or complicating modes of figuration and critical interpretation that confirm human privilege

The Tiger That Swallowed the Boy John Simons, 2012-11-30 This book asks an important question If you were born in rural England in 1837 and died in 1901 and never travelled more than thirty miles in any direction would you have seen a hippopotamus before you died The answer is surprisingly yes In fact the roads of England were thronged with all manner of creatures There were even exotic butterfly farms Kangaroos hopped around the lawns of stately homes tigers prowled the backstreets of the East End a tapir terrorised the people of Rochdale an angry cassowary pursued a Lord as he was out for his daily ride a boa constrictor got loose in Tunbridge Wells This book is the first to explore the full and surprising extent of the exotic animal trade in nineteenth century England and its colonies It combines deep and original scholarly research with a lively style aimed at the non academic reader It looks at zoological gardens travelling menageries private menageries circuses and natural history museums to show exotic animals played a key part in the Imperial project and in the project to ensure that leisure was educational It shows how this trade was intimately connected with the tides of Empire and how as Germany rose one area of competition in which Britain came off worst was the scramble for elephants

Deviance in Neo-Victorian Culture

Saverio Tomaiuolo, 2018-10-03 This book argues that deviance represents a central issue in neo Victorian culture and that the very concept of neo Victorianism is based upon the idea of diverging from accepted notions regarding the nineteenth century frame of mind However the study of the ways in which the Victorian age has been revised by contemporary authors does not only entail analogies with the present but proves by introducing what is perhaps a more pertinent description of the nineteenth century that it was much more deviant than it is usually depicted and perceived Deviance in Neo Victorian Culture Canon Transgression Innovation explores a wide variety of textual forms from novels to TV series from movies and graphic novels to visual art The scholarly and educational purpose of this study is to stimulate readers to approach neo Victorianism as a complex cultural phenomenon
