Child of the

Jungle Sabine Kuegler, 2007 Sabine Kuegler's childhood was far from typical. The child of German linguists and missionaries, she spent her youth living among the Fayu tribe in the most remote jungles of West Papua, Indonesia. There, as her family struggled for acceptance among the tightly knit and fiercely loyal community, Sabine spent her time swimming with crocodiles, shooting poisonous spiders with arrows, and chewing on pieces of bat wing in place of gum. And she was happy. It wasn't until her world was upended at the age of 17 that Sabine experienced true fear for the first time: she was sent off to a boarding school in Switzerland and forced to confront the culture clash of modern Western society, giving her plenty of reason to be afraid. This is her remarkable true story. From publisher description

Why I Believe in God Gerhard Lohfink, 2025-04-15 Renowned Scripture scholar Gerhard Lohfink's most personal book. While many of his other books offer biblical exegesis, this book tells the story of a life. Through personal biblical and theological reflections, Gerhard Lohfink (1934–2024) offers readers hope for the future with a compelling glimpse into his own story of faith. In Why I Believe in God, Lohfink also considers how the Christian faith can still exist in a world filled with hatred, war, and destruction. Interwoven with his life history, Lohfink reports on his childhood during the Nazi era and the Second World War, on his theology studies in Frankfurt and Munich, on his experiences as a priest and pastor, on his further studies in Würzburg, his time as a professor in Tübingen, and the years after. He also deals with questions that play a decisive role in every Christian life: about the truth in the Bible, the role of reason in the Christian faith, and about dealing with God when it comes to life decisions
