Letter To His Father By Franz Kafka:

Franz Kafka's Letter to his Father Franz Kafka, 2024-10-23 Dearest Father You asked me recently why I maintain that I am afraid of you As usual I was unable to think of any answer to your question partly for the very reason that I am afraid of you and partly because an explanation of the grounds for this fear would mean going into far more details than I could even approximately keep in mind while talking And if I now try to give you an answer in writing it will still be very incomplete because even in writing this fear and its consequences hamper me in relation to you and because the magnitude of the subject goes far beyond the scope of my memory and power of reasoning to you the matter always seemed very simple at least in so far as you talked about it in front of me and indiscriminately in front of many other people It looked to you more or less as follows you have worked hard all your life have sacrificed everything for your children above all for me consequently I have lived high and handsome have been completely at liberty to learn whatever I wanted and have had no cause for material worries which means worries of any kind at all You have not expected any gratitude for this knowing what children s gratitude is like but have expected at least some sort of obligingness some sign of sympathy Instead I have always hidden from you in my room among my books with crazy friends or with crackpot ideas I have never talked to you frankly I have never come to you when you were in the synagogue never visited you at Franzensbad nor indeed ever shown any family feeling I have never taken any interest in the business or your other concerns I saddled you with the factory and walked off I encouraged Ottla in her obstinacy and never lifted a finger for you never even got you a theater ticket while I do everything for my friends If you sum up your judgment of me the result you get is that although you don t charge me with anything downright improper or wicked with the exception perhaps of my latest marriage plan you do charge me with coldness estrangements and ingratitude And what is more you charge me with it in such a way as to make it seem my fault as though I might have been able with something like a touch on the steering wheel to make everything quite different while you aren t in the slightest to blame unless it be for having been too good to me Letter to the Father/Brief an den Vater Franz

Kafka, 2015-11-03 Franz Kafka wrote this letter to his father Hermann Kafka in November 1919 Max Brod Kafka s literary executor relates that Kafka actually gave the letter to his mother to hand to his father hoping it might renew a relationship that had lost itself in tension and frustration on both sides But Kafka s probing of the deep flaw in their relationship spared neither his father nor himself He could not help seeing the failure of communication between father and son as another moment in the larger existential predicament depicted in so much of his work Probably realizing the futility of her son s gesture Julie Kafka did not deliver the letter but instead returned it to its author Letter to His Father by Franz Kafka
