

A black horse is depicted in mid-stride, running across a vast, golden desert dune. The horse is wearing a bridle and a saddle with a striped blanket. The background shows the undulating curves of the sand dunes under a clear blue sky.

"Searing. Slade's descriptions of desert warfare will leave you gasping for air."

Megiddos Shadow By Arthur Slade:

Megiddo's Shadow Arthur Gregory Slade, 2006 After the death of his beloved older brother Hector in World War I sixteen year old Edward leaves the family farm in Canada to enlist in Hector's battalion where he attempts to come to terms with what has happened

Boys and Girls in No Man's Land Susan Fisher, 2011-04-09 Boys and Girls in No Man's Land examines how the First World War entered the lives and imaginations of Canadian children Drawing on educational materials textbooks adventure tales plays and Sunday school papers this study explores the role of children in the nation's war effort Susan R Fisher also considers how the representation of the war has changed in Canadian children's literature During the war the conflict was invariably presented as noble and thrilling but recent Canadian children's books paint a very different picture What once was regarded a morally uplifting struggle rich in lessons of service and sacrifice is now presented as pointless slaughter This shift in tone and content reveals profound changes in Canadian attitudes not only towards the First World War but also towards patriotism duty and the shaping of the moral citizen
