challenge habitual productions of meaning and knowledge Schwab's study draws on anthropology philosophy critical theory and psychoanalysis to trace literature's profound impact on the cultural imaginary Following a new interpretation of Derrida's and Lévi Strauss's famous controversy over the indigenous Nambikwara Schwab explores the vicissitudes of traveling literature through novels and films that fashion a cross cultural imaginary She also examines the intricate links between colonialism cannibalism melancholia the fate of disenfranchised children under the forces of globalization and the intertwining of property and personhood in the neoliberal imaginary Schwab concludes with an exploration of discourses on the posthuman using Samuel Beckett's The Lost Ones and its depiction of a future lived under the conditions of minimal life Drawing on a wide range of theories Schwab engages the productive intersections between literary studies and anthropology underscoring the power of literature to shape culture subjectivity and life

Entitled to the Pedestal Nghana Lewis, 2007-04 In this searching study Nghana Lewis offers a close reading of the works and private correspondences essays and lectures of five southern white women writers Julia Peterkin Gwen Bristow Caroline Gordon Willa Cather and Lillian Smith At the core of this work is a sophisticated reexamination of the myth of southern white womanhood Lewis overturns the conventional argument that white women were passive and pedestal bound Instead she argues that these figures were complicit in the day to day dynamics of power and authorship and stood to gain much from these arrangements at the expense of others At the same time that her examination of southern mythology explodes received wisdom it is also a journey of self discovery As Lewis writes in her preface As a proud daughter of the South I have always been acutely aware of the region's rich cultural heritage folks and foodstuffs How could I not be I was born and reared in Lafayette Louisiana where an infant's first words are not da da and ma ma but crawfish boil and fais do do I have also always been keenly familiar with its volatile history Where these conflicting images and specifically the role of white southern women as catalysts vindicators abettors and antagonists meet forms the crux of this study As such this study of the South by a daughter of the South offers a distinctive perspective that illuminates the texts in novel and provocative ways

USCHI'S JOURNEY URSULA S. ELOVIC, 2010-08-23 This is a true and gripping account of the sufferings and triumphs of young Uschi and her German family enduring the challenges and dangers of living in Nazi Germany during World War II and its aftermath It begins with her family's vibrant and joyful life in pre war Germany and vividly describes life in Berlin and the harrowing experience of the Allied bombardments and subsequent evacuation of women and children to the East With the advance of the Russian Army Uschi and her family find themselves on the front line and are driven back in forced marches to Germany Following the defeat of the Nazis the family returns to Allied occupied Berlin only to find the city in ruins With the shortages of food and shelter they suffer extreme hardships of hunger and cold winters Uschi's strength and resilience against impossible odds is both inspiring and heart wrenching Having lived through the war Uschi's saga takes yet another surprising and improbable turn that changes her life forever
