The Water in Between Kevin Patterson, 2000 A high seas adventure story that combines the wry wit and deep reflection of A Walk in the Woods with the action and suspense of A Perfect Storm A stint in the army and a broken heart lead Kevin Patterson to the dock of a sailboat brokerage on Vancouver Island where he stands contemplating the romance of the sea and his heartfelt desire to get away By the end of the day he finds himself the neophyte owner of a sailboat called the Sea Mouse He also has a plan to sail to Tahiti and back and burn away his failings in hard miles at sea First he recruits a traveling companion another brokenhearted guy who at least knows how to sail They set out like the Two Stooges Seasick and Slapstick Days without wind are days to kick back on the deck with a beer and a man versus nature adventure book that valorizes their journey into an essential quest for manhood But eventually the voyage begins to take on a sharper edge On a relentless beat across the South Pacific they run across one solitary male sailor after another on the lam not heroes but refugees Both the literature and the reality of masculine adventure start to pall and Patterson begins to long for home But to get there he faces the toughest of trials single handedly sailing the Sea Mouse across the North Pacific and through a four day gale conscious that no one on earth knows where he is or that he might die The illusion that men are best tested by loneliness and adversity cracks in the force of the wind and the terrifying beat of the water and The Water In Between becomes a hymn not to running away but to heading home Literature of Travel and Exploration Jennifer
