Having a Good Cry Robyn R. Warhol, 2003 Robyn R. Warhol's goal is to investigate the effects of readers' emotional responses to formulaic fiction of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries on gendered subjectivity She argues that modern literary and cultural studies have ignored nonsexual affectivity in their inquiries The book elaborates on Warhol's theory of affect and then focuses on sentimental stories marriage plots serialized novels and soap operas as distinct genres producing specific feelings among fans Popular narrative forms use formulas to bring up familiar patterns of feelings in the audiences who love them This book looks at the patterns of feelings that some nineteenth and twentieth century popular genres evoke and asks how those patterns are related to gender Soap operas and sentimentalism are generally derided as effeminate forms because their emotional range is seen as hyperfeminine Having a Good Cry presents a celebration of effeminate feelings and works toward promoting more flexible less pejorative concepts of gender Using a psychophysiological rather than a psychoanalytic approach to reading and emotion Warhol seeks to make readers more conscious of what is happening to the gendered body when we read

Patrick O'Brian's Bodies at Sea Michael Leigh Sinowitz, 2014-07-18 An exploration of the complex roles that bodies both literally and figuratively play in the 21 volume Aubrey Maturin series reveals much about the novels many meditations on mind and body Beginning with a consideration of genre norms and the bodies of the novels main characters the book's focus shifts to the ways the series offers interconnections between the human body and history More literal considerations of the body examine O Brian's depictions of drug use particularly the opium addiction that afflicts Stephen Maturin and human sexuality in its many guises The work then focuses on Desolation Island the fifth novel in the series in light of the discussions above but also in terms of political and psychological tropes that draw upon the relationship of mind and body Questions are examined about the relationship of reader to author and what sustains such a long narrative and what continues to bring a reader back again and again
