Nursing Afaf Ibrahim Meleis, 2011 An additional assumption was that the processes for theory development were new to nursing and hence nurses in graduate programs learned strategies for advancing knowledge from other disciplines This assumption was debunked with the knowledge that nurses were always engaged in knowledge development driven by their experiences in clinical practice Because of these assumptions most of the early writing about theory development was about outlining strategies that should be used rather than strategies that have already been used in the discipline to develop theories Theorists themselves did not uncover or adequately discuss ways by which they developed their theories therefore the tendency was to describe processes that were based on theories developed in other disciplines mainly the physical and social sciences And an implicit assumption was made that there should be a single strategy for theory development some claiming to begin the process from practice and others believing it should be driven by research Provided by publisher

Understanding Social Research George McKenzie, Jane Powell, Robin Usher, 2005-08-04 In 1991 the Economic and Social Research Council ESRC published Postgraduate Training Guidelines Throughout the document emphasis is placed on the need for universities to make postgraduate research students aware of the methodological issues that affect their work This text explores the relationship between knowledge methodology and research practice across the broad spectrum of the social sciences in language that is accessible to researchers at all levels of their research careers. It follows the themes that there is no single practice or correct methodology and that the diversity and variety in terms of methodology and disciplinary focus are a sign of the sophistication and complexity of the processes of social research. The text examines socio cultural contexts of social research and relates them to contemporary shifts in focus such as feminism, critical theory and postmodernism. The importance of selecting the research methodology most appropriate to the subject discipline concerned is emphasized.

In Search of Nursing Science Anna Omery, Christine E. Kasper, Gayle Page, 1995-01-09. In the field of nursing, which schools of philosophical thought have the greatest influence?
