Atlas Climate Change Responsibility Atmospheric:

Atlas of Climate Change: Responsibility and Obligation of Human Society Wenjie Dong, Jianbin Huang, Yan Guo, Fumin Ren, 2015-11-25 This atlas and reference resource assembles the latest research findings on the responsibility and obligation of human society for historical climate change. It clearly and quantitatively estimates to what extent the developed and developing world are responsible for historical climate change with regard to anthropogenic carbon and sulfur emissions as well as global carbon trade and so provides a potential tool to address the controversial issue of carbon emission reduction in international climate negotiations. Since the quantitative attribution of historical climate change is calculated based on CMIP5 models, the fidelity of these models in representing the observed climate change is also evaluated. In addition to evaluation, future climate change based on CMIP5 models is also shown both on global and regional scales, especially for China and its surrounding areas in terms of surface air temperature, precipitation, sea surface temperature, atmospheric circulations, and Arctic Sea ice. The atlas also makes various comparisons among different multi-model ensemble methods in order to obtain the most reliable estimation.

Climate Change and American Policy John R. Burch, Jr., 2016-08-26 Climate change has long been a contentious issue even before its official acknowledgment as a global threat in 1979. Government policies have varied widely from Barack Obama's dedication to environmentalism to George W. Bush's tacit minimizing of the problem to Republican officials' refusal to acknowledge the scientific evidence supporting anthropogenic climate change. Presented chronologically, this collection of important policy shaping documents shows how the views of both advocates and deniers of climate change have developed over the past four decades.
